EUROPE.

The French Conspiracy—An Insane Englishman Arrested as a Plotter—Extent of the Plot—The Popular Vote—The Medical Students and Dr. Tardieu—Arrests at La Creuzot.

PARIS, May 2.—The Figaro of today says that a man was arrested at the race-course yesterday, (where the Emperor was expected as usual,) who, upon an examination, was found in possession of a revolver and a formidable-looking dagger. Subsequently his house was searched, and a large quantity of bombs discovered. He proved, however, to be an insane Englishman, who had nothing whatever to do with the conspiracy. The Journal Officiel begins today the publication of addresses presented to the Emperor congratulating him on the discovery and frustration of the conspiracy against his life. A number of bombs have been seized at the foundary of M. LEPAY. An order had been received at this place for four hundred bombs, but, owing to the strike only twenty-two had been delivered. The Police continue their arrests and searches in connection with the last conspiracy. The ramifications of the plot seemed to be much wider spread than at first supposed, and new developments are continually coming to light. Arrests continue to be made in all directions. The Central Committee in favor of the plebiscite have sent one hundred thousand copies of this morning's Figaro, which contains all the details of the conspiracy against the life of the Emperor, into the various Provinces, as a document furnishing arguments in favor of an affirmative vote. The public meetings held in different parts of Paris yesterday, were very exciting, and some were consequently dissolved by the authorities. In many instances the audiences departed amid shouts of "Vive la Republique!" No rioting has occurred. One of the radical journals this morning publishes a document pronouncing the expulsion of the Italian banker, CERNUSCHI, a violation of the laws of the country, done in the interest of a political party. The protest is signed by MM. ARAGO CREMIEUX, JULES FAVRE, J. FERRY PELLETAN, JULES SIMON, and many other equally well-known Radicals. The banker has gone to Geneva.... The Ecole de Medecine was reopened today. Dr. TARDIEU was present and delivered his lecture without interruption, owing to the great precautions taken by the authorities. But on leaving the college the Professor was insulted by a large crowd of students in the street, and was compelled to call on the Police for protection....At Creuzot yesterday M. ASSY, a leader in the last strike, was arrested. The workmen attempted to rescue him, but did not succeed, and nine of them were made prisoners. Several soldiers were wounded during the struggle.... The Bishop of Evreux died while on his way home from Rome.

Antonelli's Reply to the Daru Note—The Opposition Bishops in the Council—Assassination—The Kelley and Bright Race on the Tyne.

ROME, May 2.—Cardinal ANTONELLI, in his reply, barely tells M. DARU that His Holiness the Pope declines to submit the French note to the Ecumenical Council. The prelates opposed to infallibility, and who absented themselves because that dogma was pressed upon the Council, have been communicated with by telegraph and urged to return to Rome.

LONDON, May 2.—A dispatch from Florence, just received, confirms the report of the assassination of Italian Consul PAPPALEPONE at Buenos Ayres....The Kelley and Bright race in open boats for 400 sovereigns, which took place today on the river Tyne at Newcastle, from the High Level Bridge to Scotswood Suspension Bridge, resulted in favor of HARRY KELLEY, of Putney, ex-champion of the Thames. The betting before the start was five to four on KELLEY. BRIGHT won the toss, and took the north side, KELLEY getting off first, with BRIGHT closing up so rapidly that they were abreast at the first 100 yards. At Redleigh Bridge, BRIGHT spurted and gained the lead as they reached Waterhouse Quay. Here KELLEY, by a gallant effort, recovered his lost position, and continued gaining until he was sufficiently ahead to take BRIGHT's water, which he did without hesitation at St. Ann's Bridge, keeping two lengths ahead until near Paradise Quay, where he eased up. BRIGHT came up at this point with a grand spurt and fouled KELLEY so palpably that the umpire gave the race to KELLEY on that ground, although as it was he actually came in four lengths ahead. The time of the winner was 28 minutes and 30 seconds.

Proceedings in the British Parliament—The Irish Land Bill and the Monastery Inquiry in the House of Commons—Defeat of the Latter.

LONDON, May 2.—In the House of Lords to-night Baron TALBOT presented a petition from the Parish Guardians of North Dublin praying for the repeal of the Act of Union. There being no business of importance, the House rose.... In the House of Commons, as important debates on the Irish Land bill and the Convent investigation, were expected, the benches were filled and the galleries and lobbies crowded. Many petitions were received for and against the proposed inquiry into monastic institutions. The correspondence on the Red River difficulty was ordered by the House. Mr. OTWAY, Under Colonial Secretary, explained that the trial of BARRETT for the murder of SPEAR, had been postponed to June in consequence of the absence of important witnesses. The House went into Committee on the Irish Land Bill. Mr. SYNAN moved an amendment making the term of agricultural leases sixty-one instead of thirty-one years. This was opposed by Mr. DISRAELI and withdrawn. Mr. BALL moved to amend by reducing the term to twenty-one years. This he thought would meet all the equities of the case. The Marquis of HARTINGTON deplored the introduction of such amendments. They created new elements of discord, especially between landlord and tenant. Mr. PALMER supported the amendment, which, on division of the House, was rejected by a vote of 209 to 200. Other amendments of details were considered, and either withdrawn or rejected. Without further action on the bill the Committee rose. Mr. NEWDEGATE then urged his motion for an inquiry into the monastic institutions of England. Mr. WINTERBOTHAM opposed a proceeding which might cause scenes which the whole country would regret. Mr. GLADSTONE implored members to show a spirit of concession and conciliation. He was not opposed to an inquiry into the laws whereby monastic houses held property, but he was decidedly opposed to an investigation of their internal affairs. The House divided on Mr. NEWDEGATE'S motion for a committee of investigation, and rejected it by a majority of 110. Mr. GLADSTONE then moved for the appointment of a committee to inquire into the tenure of monastic property, and, after a slight opposition, the motion was carried by 291 majority. The House, at 2 o'clock A. M., adjourned....Lord DERBY was before the Committee on Diplomatic Service today. In the course of his testimony he objected to the American system of diplomacy, because it employed men whose diplomatic career was accidental, not professional.

Mr. Jay in London—The English Weavers—Delegates to the Protestant Conference at New-York—Red River—Another Pastoral Letter from Cardinal Cullen—A Wreck.

LONDON, May 3.—JOHN JAY and his family have arrived here....There is an active movement of the cotton weavers all over the country for advanced wages....The following delegates to the New-York Protestant Conference have already announced their intention to be present: Lord Alfred Churchill, Earl Cavan, and the following members of the House of Commons: Sir Harry Verney, Buckingham; William Shepherd Allen, Newcastle-under-Lyme; John Candlish, Sunderland; Thomas Chambers, Marylebone; William Fowler, Cambridge borough; William McArthur, Lambeth, and Rowland Smith, Derbyshire South....It is intimated that Gen. LINDSAY, who commands the expedition to the Red River country, will remain there as Governor of the North-western Territory after order is restored ....The Times this morning ridicules the Tornado case, saying that neither English conscience nor honor is in any way concerned with it.... Mr. BENSON has announced his intention to resign the Presidency of the Oxford Boat Club in a few days.

LIVERPOOL, May 2.—The propellor City of Ragusa, seven yards long, Capt. BUCKLEY, will leave this port for New-York in a few days.

DUBLIN, May 2.—Cardinal CULLEN has issued another pastoral letter, renewing his denunciation of Fenianism and Free Masonry, and reprobating Mr. NEWDEGATE'S inquiry into the monastic institutions.

SOUTHAMPTON, May 2.—The steam-ship Hermann, which arrived today from New-York, reports that on the 30th of April she passed a wreck painted black, with a white stripe around the stern, the deck-house painted yellow, and the foremast, which was still standing, white. She was evidently a bark.

CUBA.

The Reported Revolt of the Spanish Volunteers—Capture of the Morro Castle Doubtful—Why Gen. Jordan Left.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Government has, up to this morning, received no official dispatches in the least degree confirming or strengthening the report that volunteers have seized Morro Castle, as recently reported. There is no doubt, however, the volunteers control to a great degree the Spanish authorities. A prominent friend of Cuban independence says the reason why Gen. JORDAN left the Cuban army is that he had engaged in that service for only one year, which time has expired; but he is now on his way to this country, accompanied by two secretaries, as an accredited agent of the insurgents.

Spanish Accounts of Operations on the Island—Another Order to Surrender Issued by De Rodas.

HAVANA, May 2.—The following reports of the situation in the interior come from Spanish sources:

"The insurgents in the Camaguey District continue to present themselves in large numbers to receive pardon. The resignation of the rebel Gen. AGRAMONTE is confirmed. The rebels have abolished the rank of General-in-Chief, and appointed FREDERIC CAVADA Chief of Operations, and BEMBITA Commanding-General in the Cinco Villas District. Fifteen Spanish soldiers captured last June by the rebels have just arrived at Puerto Principe. They were threatened with death by QUESADA, but their lives were saved through the intercession of BEMBITA, with whom they served up to the time of their release. The rebel President CESPEDES is roaming about the country sleeping twice in the same place. The disloyal Prefect BETANCOUR, alias Barbazo, and the Sub-Prefect RAFETI have been captured and executed at Puerto Principe. The gun-boat Soldado recently captured a small boat at La Guajata Key. In the boat were found a passport issued to Gen. GOICOURIA and his commission as Ambassador to Mexico, both signed by CESPEDES. Other gun-boats coming up the key were surrounded. A search will be made, and if GOICOURIA is on the island, he cannot escape. Many insurgents have been killed at Alvarez, and near Santo Espiritu, by the volunteers."

Capt.-Gen. DE RODAS has issued an order requiring all persons residing in the insurrectionary district to come to the nearest settlement or town within the next thirty days; and threatening that, should they neglect to do so, if captured they will be treated as rebels. This order causes much excitement, and is considered a heavy blow to the insurgent cause.

THE INDIANS.

The Disaffected Savages—All Available Troops Ordered to the Plains—Cheyenne Agency in Possession of the Indians.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—On inquiry at the proper quarter today it is ascertained that the Sioux are the principal, if not the only part of the Indians, who manifest restlessness which may at any time be changed to wide-spread hostilities against the whites. The War Department has recently ordered all the available military force to the Plains in order to guard the Pacific Railroad, as well as to keep the peace. The entire army does not consist of more than 30,000 men, inclusive of those not employed in the field, and the terms of enlistment of many of them are expiring faster than recruits can be obtained to take their places. The official reports show that the dissatisfaction of the Indians arises from the non-fulfillment of treaty stipulations made two years ago by Gens. SHERMAN, TERRY, SANBORN, HARNEY, and several other officers and civilians, by which they were to be placed on reservations and fed for two years. The Indian Peace Commissioners will meet in Washington to-morrow to make arrangements for returning to the Indian country with a view of quieting the existing troubles.

CHEYENNE, May 2.—A private letter from Fort Laramie, dated April 29, says the Indians attacked BEN MILLS' cattle herd on Chugwater, and slaughtered several cattle. The two men who were with the herd are missing. Large numbers of men are daily arriving from the East to join the Big Horn Association. Over a hundred turned out today and paraded the streets. The expedition will start May 10.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Persons who arrived at Sioux City yesterday from Fort Sully report that the Cheyenne agency has been taken possession of by the Indians; that on attempting to land they were ordered back by the savages, who fired over their heads; that Major RANDALL and comrades are prisoners, and that the Indians had killed a large number of cattle, the carcasses of which are seen along the river banks and on sand bars.

Collision Near Quebec—The Steamer City of Quebec Sunk in Half an Hour—Two Lives Lost.

QUEBEC, Canada, May 2.—The steam-ship Germany ran into the steam-ship City of Quebec when off Green Island, yesterday. The latter steamer sunk in deep water half an hour afterward. Her third engineer and a passenger were lost.

THE ONEIDA DISASTER.

Opinion of the United States Naval Board at Yokohama—The Oneida Blameless—The Bombay Alone Responsible for Lives and Property Destroyed—Cruelty and Inhumanity.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The following is the opinion of the United States Naval Court, consisting of Capt. ROE, Lieut.-Com. MULLIN and Pay-master LYONS, convened at Yokohama to investigate the cause of the collision between the Bombay and Oneida. It was received by the Navy Department today and forwarded to Congress:

The evidence in the case being in possession of the Court, the members, after mature and studious consideration, find as follows, to wit:

COURSE OF THE ONEIDA.

That on the 24th day of January, 1870, at 5¼ P. M., the United States corvette Oneida got under way from Yokohoma Harbor, and stood down the bay of Yeddo on her way to Hong Kong, and the way to the United States. About 5½ P. M. she passed to eastward of Eastward Light-ship, distance 220 fathoms; made sail, and under low steam passed her course south by east, one-fourth east, to clear Saratoga Spit and pass around Kan Saki Light. That she steamed this course, running at a speed of little less than seven knots per hour until she arrived in the vicinity of Saratoga Spit, when the officer of the deck believed the vessel was sagging to the westward from this course and hauled her up one and three-quarter points to the east, but only until the navigator could get on deck, who, after being informed of it, promptly ordered the ship again to be put on her course of south by east, one-quarter east, specially stating that he could not go more to eastward by reason of danger of getting ashore on Saratoga Spit.

THE BOMBAY IN SIGHT.

About this time the English Peninsular and Oriental steam-ship Bombay, Capt. EYRE, hove in sight around Kanon Saki Point and to eastward of it, distant from the Oneida about five or six miles, and bearing ahead, then rapidly passing on to the Oneida's starboard bow.

THE CRASH.

Very soon, indeed, the Oneida's lookout and navigator made out the masthead and starboard or green light of the Bombay, and they saw the Bombay pass from east to westward of Kanon Saki Light, and her course was narrowly observed by the officers on duty and by the lookout of the Oneida, and she was seen passing clear, giving a wide berth; that after running some fifteen or twenty minutes, rapidly changing her bearings more and more broad, about four to five points or more on the starboard bow of the Oneida, and while the Oneida's lights were brightly burning, the Bombay suddenly ported her helm and came directly at the Oneida in the direction of her green light, and struck her at starboard mizzen rigging at about an eight-knot speed, cutting away all her starboard quarter at an angle of forty-five degrees, and on a line from the main rigging to the wheel and to the starboard side of the combings of the cabin hatch, thence clear to her rudder-head down to the water's edge; that the Oneida had her whole wheel carried away, then rounded to port and stood in toward the shoal in an east by north direction, and sunk in twenty fathoms of water in about twelve to fifteen minutes after, carrying down with her some one hundred and fifteen of her officers and men.

POSITION OF THE VESSELS.

It appears fully from the evidence that the Oneida at no time saw the red light, but constantly saw the green light of the Bombay, and that her own lights were properly placed and in full burning order. It also appears that officers and crew behaved with coolness and discipline, and at no time acted in doubt or hesitation, but that when the Bombay was about five points on the Oneida's starboard bow, or three points forward of her starboard beam, the Bombay put her helm hard-a-port and went directly at the Oneida, when the latter vessel at once flung her own helm hard-a-starboard, and it was in that position, and the ship was rapidly paying off to port when the Bombay struck. At this time the Oneida headed as high as east by north, and the Bombay headed north-easterly, north to north-east.

THE CRY FOR HELP UNHEEDED.

It is also shown that after the collision the Executive Officer of the Oneida, Lieut.-Commander STEWART, hailed the Bombay several times, calling to her to lay by as the Oneida was cut down, and this when the Bombay was within a few yards of the Oneida's stern; that this call was unanswered and unheeded; that then three or four big guns were fired from the Oneida as signals of distress, with a full service charge of six pounds of powder, and these signals were also unheeded. It is also shown that at the moment of collision the Bombay stopped the engines for a very few moments, but that she did not once lose her headway; but, after crushing through the quarter of the Oneida, rending a breach so wide that persons in her big cabin looked out into the open sea through a space from fifteen to twenty feet or more, and yet the Bombay kept on her way direct; that she passed out of sight of the officers and men who were hailing and looking at her in five to ten minutes, and anchored safely in Yokohama Harbor at 7¾ o'clock on the same evening. The Bombay neither offered nor asked for assistance, or communicated after the collision.

THE ONEIDA BLAMELESS.

The Court, therefore, totally exonerates and exculpates the Oneida and her officers from all and any blame for the disaster, and finds, also, that they acted promptly; that the Oneida was skillfully handled and that the international rules of the road were carefully and intelligently obeyed.

SHORT OF BOATS.

The Court at this point observes, however, with deep pain, that the Oneida had lost her gig by the collision, that the dingey-boat had been broken into some time before sailing, and that during a typhoon some months previous she had lost her two largest and most serviceable boats, thus leaving her in an hour of supreme distress with but two boats to save her people. Had the Oneida replaced her boats and gone to sea with a full complement of them, it is morally certain many more valuable lives would have been saved.

THE BOMBAY IGNORANT OR RECKLESS.

The Bombay, on the other hand, acted either grossly ignorant or wilfully reckless. After rounding Kanon Saki light to the eastward of it, then passing it so as to show her mast-head and green light to the westward of it as seen from the Oneida, she had no reason to stand so far to the eastward as the Oneida was shown to be, nor could she have passed to the eastward of the Oneida's position at the time of the collision at night, as she seems to have endeavored to do, without endangering her own safety by going ashore on Saratoga Spit; nor can the plea be made or sustained of a narrow channelway, for at this place the shortest distance between two points of danger east and west is some three to three and a half nautical miles. Moreover, the land on the west side is very high and steep too, while on the eastern side, where the Oneida was, there was a dangerous shallow, without a land-mark at night to be seen to guide. Hence the Bombay crossing so far over to the eastern shore with the green light of the Oneida in full view, as it must have been, is an action so extraordinary as to stagger a common sense of safety and duty, to say nothing of regulations and seaman-like knowledge.

THE BOMBAY RAN AT THE ONEIDA.

A line due south by east, quarter-east, drawn through the Saratoga Spit buoy, and another at a point to westward of Kanon Saki light, in a direction north by west, half-west, after rounding the light, which is the pilot course, shows how impossible it was for the Bombay to have collided with the Oneida unless indeed she ran directly at the latter's green light, as several witnesses testified she did. The cause of the collision, then, is altogether and entirely due to the Bombay, whose commanding officer is to blame beyond excuse.

UNPARALLELED CRUELTY.

Again, the conduct of the Bombay after the collision, in passing on out of sight; in not communicating with the Oneida; in disregarding the loud hails of the executive officers of the Oneida; disregarding the signal of her steam-whistle, which was kept blowing until the Oneida sunk, and finally, in not hearing, or if she heard, in not replying to the three or four heavy signal guns fired from the Oneida, although they were distinctly heard in Yokohama, at a distance of over nine miles, is so guilty and blameable that this Court can only speak of it as unparalleled in cruelty.

THE BOMBAY OFFICERS RESPONSIBLE.

Finally, from the evidence adduced, which has been accumulated to a degree only in measure of the gravity of the case, from the inspection of the known courses and positions on the chart, which is a part of this record, we fix the entire fault of this dreadful collision, the total loss to the Government of the United States of the steam corvette Oneida, with the destruction of the lives of 16 of her officers and crew, on the officers and commander of the English steam-ship Bombay.

A Students' Rebellion in Dickenson College—Two Classes in Open Revolt.

CARLISLE, Penn., May 2.—The Junior and Sophomore classes of Dickenson College have rebelled against an order of the Faculty issued April 26. Both classes absented themselves from recitations, leave of absence having previously been refused by the Faculty. Minus marks were assessed upon the offending students. To this punishment the students object, claiming that the punishment is excessive. The Faculty not yielding up to Saturday the students then notified the Faculty that until the difference was settled they would perform no duties. The Faculty notified them this morning that they will proceed as usual, and that absentees from recitations to-day would be suspended until September, and any remaining in town after Tuesday, May 3, would be expelled. The classes have refused today to attend recitations and are consequently suspended. The two classes compose about one half of the students at the college. There is a report that the Executive Committee have been asked to interfere, but they have declined to do anything except as mediators in the matter, and will meet in the chapel this evening to see if any arrangement can be effected. The difficulty seems to be concerning a question of authority.

THE SOUTH.

The Richmond Mayoralty Injunction in the Circuit Court—Respect to the Memory of the Victims of the Disaster—Peter Phillips' Case—The Georgia Legislature.

RICHMOND, Va., May 2.—In the United States Circuit Court today, Chief-Justice CHASE presiding, the writ of injunction in the case of GEORGE CAHOON vs. HENRY K. ELLYSON, granted by the District Judge, which by its own terms as well as by the terms of the law, expires today, unless a motion be made for its renewal, the Court understands that this case is now disposed of by agreement, and by the decision of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, and the case is therefore dismissed....Gen. BRADLEY T. JOHNSON announced that a series of resolutions adopted by the Bar of Richmond in reference to the recent calamity would be presented to the Court to-morrow, and an adjournment of the Court asked.

The CHIEF-JUSSICE—We shall feel it our duty to join in any demonstration of sorrow and respect which may be intended by the members of the Bar in respect to the great calamity, and in consideration of the motion made by Gen. JOHNSON, will adjourn to-morrow until Wednesday, and then meet only to hear the resolution read....In the case of JAMES JETER PHILLIPS, convicted of the murder of his wife three years ago, and whose case was stayed by Judge UNDERWOOD'S decision that the Court officers who had not taken the iron-clad oath were not legal officers, it was decided by the Chief Justice as follows:

"This appeal in the case will be determined by the same principles which governed the Court in the determination of the Cæsar Griffin case. The opinion of the presiding Judge of the Circuit Court is made by law the opinion of the Court. That opinion was that the sentence was pronounced by competent authority under the Constitution of the United States, as well as under the laws of the State of Virginia. The appeal in the case of PHILLIPS will therefore be dismissed."

Unless the Executive intervenes, the prisoner, under this decision, will be executed July 8. He has been respited nine times, awaiting the decision of the United States Court.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 2.—Both Houses met this morning. No business was transacted in the Senate, that body awaiting the action of the House on the resolution to adjourn. The House concurred in the Senate resolutions, continuing the Appropriation act, the Tax act, &c., and they were adopted as a whole by 77 yeas to 56 nays. Adjourned.

MEDICAL COLLEGES.

Proceedings in the National Convention in Washington—Coming Meeting of the American Medical Association—Exciting Preliminary Meeting—Colored Delegates Rejected.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The National Convention of Medical Colleges has passed the preamble and resolutions offered by Prof. LOGAN, setting forth "that, as this Convention has failed to secure the assent of a majority of the regular medical colleges of the United States to the system of improvement in medical education, recommended at its last session, and as it is the opinion of this Convention that the best means of gradual improvement in medical education can be inaugurated in the medical colleges of this country will be found in the associated action of such colleges as will unite for that purpose.

Resolved, First, That a Committee of nine be appointed whose duty it shall be to communicate with the faculties of all the regular medical colleges in the United States, with the view to ascertain how many and which may be willing to become members of an Association of Medical Colleges, having for its prime object the improvement of the medical education.

Second—That the Committee of said Committee be instructed as soon as he shall have received affirmative replies from the regular colleges, to inform each Faculty so consenting of the fact, and to request that each Faculty elect one or more delegates to convene on the Friday before the day appointed for the meeting of the American Medical Association in 1871, and at the place of meeting chosen by that body; said delegates to be fully authorized to pledge their respective Faculties to whatever definite plans of improvement in medical education may be adopted by the body in convention.

Third—It is hereby recommended that said delegates organize thereat in behalf of their respective institutions into a permanent association of medical colleges for the above-mentioned object, and with the view of co-operating with the American Medical Association and the profession at large to accomplish so desirable an end.

Fourth—That Prof. N. S. DAVIS, the Chairman of the Committee appointed by this body at its last session to communicate with the Medical Colleges on the same subject, be made Chairman of this Committee, and that the Committee be authorized to fill any vacancies which may occur in its ranks.

The Chair appointed the following as the Committee:

Prof. N. S. Davis, of Illinois; Samuel Logan, New-Orleans; A. Hammer, St. Louis; T. Parvin, Louisville; S. D. Gross, Philadelphia; G. C. Blackman, Cincinnati; J. C. Shattuck, Boston; A. C. Pool, New-York.

The Convention adjourned sine die.

The annual session of the American Medical Association will commence at Lincoln Hall, in this city, to-morrow. The delegates number over 300, and comprise the most eminent medical men of the United States. After organising, the work of the several departments will be apportioned. At 8 o'clock P. M. the Association will pay their respects to the President and Mrs. GRANT. The Committee on Credentials refused, at a preliminary meeting to-night, to receive the credentials of the delegates from the National Medical Society, a new organization of the District of Columbia; also those from the Howard University Medical Department, and from three hospitals and the Alumni Association of the Medical Department of Georgetown College. The reason assigned is their consultation with colored physicians, notwithstanding they have been regularly graded. All the white physicians, as well as three colored, in these organizations are thus ruled out. They number in the aggregate about twenty-five. The rejected delegates, to whom reference is above made, together with a number of those from the Northern States to the American Medical Association held a meeting to night and expressed their indignation at the course of the Committee on Credentials. A majority and minority report will be presented at the meeting to-morrow, which, according to present appearances, will occasion earnest discussion and excitement.

Democratic Union Convention.

The Democratic Union City and County Convention met at Masonic Hall last evening. Mr. ROSWELL D. HATCH called the meeting to order, and Mr. SMITH ELY was subsequently chosen Chairman, Messrs. JOHN HALLORAN and S. HEYMAN being selected as Secretaries. About 100 delegates were present, representing nineteen wards. A short address was made by Mr. ELY, attacking the course of Tammany Hall. On motion of Mr. KERWIN, of the Third Ward, the following Committee was appointed to confer with all political organizations opposed to Tammany in regard to making a joint ticket: Messrs. Burke, McKinley, Kerwin, Kirke, Cahill, Murray, Bagley, Delaney, McArdle, Gale, McGurkin, Halloran, Wheeler, Cassidy, McNickel, Malone, Giles, Riley, Mitchell, Mooney, McCabe and Hatch.

Subsequently the Convention adjourned subject to the call of the President, without making any nominations.

EUROPEAN NEWS BY MAIL.

ARRIVAL OF THE FRENCH STEAM-SHIP PEREIRE.

The General Transatlantic Steam-ship Company's steamer Pereire, from Havre April 21 and Brest April 23, reached this port last night. Her advices are later by four days than were those at hand by the America on Monday. Capt. DUCHESNE is once more entitled to thanks for the freshest foreign files, supplied with the usual liberality and promptness.

The Francais, of April 20, has the following: "A phrase attributed to Count DE SEGUR D'AGUESSEAU was current last evening in political circles. The honorable Senator said in the Senate: 'Is it our fault if the members of the late dynasty ran away like rabits?' The last two words were omitted in the report published by the official journal."

It may be remembered, says Galignani's Messenger, that some time back the son of the Count D'AQUILA-BOURBON contracted a marriage which was not exactly to the taste of His Royal Highness, the father. The young married couple went to the United States, and, after remaining there some months, lately returned to Paris. A reconciliation has now been effected, and a family meeting took place on April 19, when everything passed over with the greatest cordiality.

CONSTITUTIONAL FRANCE.

The Senatus Consultum in the Legislature—Prefatory Remarks to Its Final Adoption by M. Emile Ollivier.

In the French Legislature, on April 20, previous to the adoption of article 45 of the Senatus Consultum, and to the indorsement in its entirety of that measure, M. OLLIVIER made the remarks following:

SPEECH OF M. OLLIVIER.

When the question of the plebiscite was forced on our attention, we asked ourselves above all whether there was any imperative necessity for consulting the nation. To what purpose, we at first said. Moral tranquillity is restored, business prospers and a general satisfaction prevails. Why disturb the present calm by a factitious agitation? But we then recalled to mind the very sensible and profound maxim of LA BRUYERE: "To think only of one's self and of the present is a source of great errors in politics." We consider the ever increasing difficulties that would be created by the establishment of a Constitution in manifest contradiction with the fundamental pact of 1851, and we decided that it would be both improvident and dangerous not to demand for the new régime the sanction which alone constituted the strength of the old. Our resolution once taken, we determined also not to do more than was necessary. We never entertained a thought of submitting to a fresh vote what was supremely decided in 1852, or of converting the hereditary Empire into an elective one by bringing again under discussion the principle of the State and the dynasty. Only the liberal modifications were to be submitted to the plebiscite. And now, gentlemen, what is about to happen? Will the parties in whose presence we stand imitate our prudence and return a limited reply to a restricted question? Or will they abandon themselves to an inveterate animosity, and agitate, either covertly or openly, the phantom of revolution. We know not, and we are unwilling to attribute to committees which work in the shade intentions which have not been manifested in open daylight. As for us, we shall accept the combat in the way it is offered. If only on the Liberal ground, we shall remain on it; if our opponents, enlarging and displacing the question, seek a conflict on the revolutionary ground, still we shall accept it. Only we call France and history to take note that we shall not have given the provocation. And if the country is again placed as it has so many times been since 1789, in the alternative of a pacific evolution and a violent subversion, let the responsibility fall on our adversaries. We shall say to them, "Do not accuse us of evoking the spectre rouge, when we are only pointing out to the nation the perils, the catastrophes, the irremediable disasters that must follow the realization of your frantic aspirations; you are the men who have revived latent fears and disquietudes; you are those who have given a present vitality to the tragic and sanguinary reminiscences of the past. Let the responsibility fall on your heads. If the present experiment succeeds, as I am sure it will, the liberal transformation will be accomplished without the revolutionary spirit having been able to compromise it or to condemn the country to an even momentary reaction. I can now reply without the slightest embarrassment to the question of Count DE SEGUR D'AGUESSEAU, that you do with your vote. I will tell you, answer, We shall use it, but in such a manner as not to forget the means by which we obtained it. And why shall we be victorious? Why will the Emperor conquer, if you will allow me so to speak? Because before him all sovereigns have exhibited the spectacle of incessant variations in their resolutions, some resisting after having yielded, others doing just the reverse. Thus the first perished by their obstinacy, the last by their concessions. The Emperor, on the contrary, has always followed a direct path; he has never attempted to take back what he once granted. Sometimes, indeed, he has hesitated, and his preparatory reflections may, perhaps, have seemed too long to some persons, but he has never taken a backward after a forward step, and what he has conceded has been definitively required. His success will have a second cause, namely, that he has always shown himself generous and magnanimous toward his adversaries. In former reigns, an amnesty was a rare event; in the present they are too numerous to be mentioned. The Government, therefore, will remain after the victory what it was before, liberal, progressive, accessible, conciliatory to its adversaries, persecuting no one. It will prosecute the work of appeasement and union. To complete the triumph of the present day will not suffice for us, we shall prolong it in the future. We foster the hope that in a few years those who now combat us will have acknowledged, overcome by evidence, that democracy and liberty could not have obtained from any other Government the satisfactions they have derived from the Imperial. Gentlemen, it is not without emotion that I contemplate the close of these debates and the arrival of the solemn hour of trial to which we invite the country. Providence has refused nothing to this deaf land of France: neither force, nor beauty, nor grace are wanting; one quality only has been found deficient; I mean the patient and measured persistence in the same idea, which is called political spirit. Either her impressions carry her beyond the mark, or her discouragements leave her short of the goal. If for the first time liberty is now acquired without convulsions, our noble country will have obtained the only gift that it wanted, and there will be in the world not only a great sovereign, but a nation without a rival.

Parties on the Plebiscitum.

L'Opinion Nationale, according to Galignani's Messenger, very justly observes that the plebiscite, whatever may be its definitive result, will have very efficiently contributed to a reclassification of the various groups which are improperly called parties. The Right Center on this occasion amalgamates with the Right; the Left Center abdicates as a body, and leaves its members free to follow their individual inspiration. The Left has divided into two parts—one of which is ranged under the banner of M. ERNEST PICARD, while the other remains in communion with MM. GAMBETTA and FERRY. A similar movement is taking place among the journals. The Liberté and the Figaro have enlisted under the flag of the Right Center, and find themselves marching in accord with the Public and the Peuple Français; the Débats and the Opinion Nationale, without wishing to assume any colors but their own, recommend an affirmative vote; the Temps, which at first went to the meeting of the Left, found matters going too fast, and retired; the Marseillaise also retired, but for a diametrically contrary reason. On the other hand the Siècle and the Avenir National remain associated with the Réveil, the Cloche and the Rappel. The Siècle ought to feel itself somewhat out of its latitude in this noble company, as it seems scarcely to remain in the same mind two days running. But it has this excuse, that the shades of distinction in many cases are difficult to fix.

The Anti-Plebiscitium Manifesto of the Extreme Left.

The following is the manifesto of the Extreme Left, drawn up by MM. GAMBETTA and FERRY, and addressed to electors who will have to vote on the plebiscite:

"The 2d of December subjected France to the power of one man. At present, personal government is judged by its fruits. Experience condemns it and the plebiscite pronounces it.

At the last elections, the French people plainly manifested its sovereign will; and for personal Government it intends to substitute that of the country by itself.

Does the new Constitution on which you are called upon to proclaim realize the national wishes? No, for it does not establish the Government of the country by the country; it only pretends to do so.

The personal government is not destroyed: it preserves intact its most redoutable prerogatives; it continues to exist, abroad, by the right to make treaties and declare war—attributes of which, during fifteen years, a use so fatal to the country has been made; and at home, by the personal rule of the Chief of the State, aided by Ministers, a Council of State, a Senate, all named by himself; a Legislative Body whose election he has secured through official candidatures and administrative pressure, by the command of the armed force, the appointment to all employments, an excessive centralization which places in his hands all the organized resources of the country and confiscates the autonomy of the communes, and which does not even leave to the populations the right to elect their municipal Magistrates.

Finally, and to crown this edifice of Imperial omnipotence, the new Constitution gives up to the exclusive initiative of the head of the State, the right which belongs essentially to every free people, of reforming, when it may consider such a course necessary, its fundamental institutions; at the same time that it hands over to the executive the Cæsarian right of appeal to the people, which is nothing more than the permanent menace of a coup d'état. Such is the Constitution proposed to you.

You are asked to sign your abdication. Will you do so? Will you renew the full powers of the Empire? Will you, under the appearance of a Parliamentary system, consolidate personal Government? If such is your intention, vote: Yes.

But if you have profited by the lesson drawn from events; if you have not forgotten either the eighteen years of oppression and the outrages on liberty, or Mexico, or Sadowa, or the debt of five thousand millions incurred, or the budgets exceeding two thousand millions, or the conscription, heavy taxes, and large contingents, you cannot vote Yes.

And the reason is, that all those evils, the traces of which will not be effaced for a long time from France, sprang, eighteen years ago, from two plebiscites similar to the one now submitted to you. At present, as then, you are asked to accord carte-blanche the alienation of your sovereignty, the transmission of the popular right to the hands of one man and family, the confiscation of the imprescriptible right of future generations.

In the name of the sovereignty of the people and of the national dignity, in that of social order and peace, which can only be realized by the conciliation of interests and classes in a free democracy, reject by your vote the new Constitution; protest by a negative vote, by a blank bulletin, or even by abstention; all methods of showing disapproval will bring their quota to the side of liberty.

As for ourselves, we shall resolutely vote No, and we advise you to do the same."

This document bears the signatures of EMMANUEL ARAGO, D. BANCEL, A. CREMIEUX, GARNIER-PAGES, and thirteen other Deputies, and by eight names of writers in the Democratic Press of Paris.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Richmond Calamity—A Committee to Receive Subscriptions.

A special meeting was held by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, Mr. GEO. OPDYKE presiding, in order to take action with regard to the recent calamity at Richmond, Va. On calling the meeting to order, the Chairman spoke of the affliction caused to the community of Richmond by the accident, and of the measures of relief that ought to be taken. He also stated that in the Court-room which fell in, a convention of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce was held in December last, to which he and several other members of that Chamber had been delegates, and that they were very kindly and hospitably treated by the people of Richmond. Mr. A. A. LOW offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the members of this Chamber have read with the most painful emotion such details as have been published of the recent calamity in the City of Richmond—a calamity which has desolated the hearts and homes of hundreds of people, and covered the whole community with the garments of mourning; and that this event affords a fitting occasion for this Chamber, and for our fellow-citizens generally, to manifest, by word and by deed, their sympathy for the bereaved and afflicted.

Resolved, That the death of more than sixty men of mature years, and the disabling of 200 others by the falling in of the Capitol at Richmond, will not only carry sorrow and suffering to the widows and children of the deceased and to the families of those who are temporarily deprived of their natural protectors, but will necessarily reduce a large number of persons to a condition of want and dependence; and feeling how severely this pressure will fall upon a community that has had so much to endure in years past, this Chamber would express the hope that the call for aid which comes to them will be cheerfully and generously answered.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to receive subscriptions, and that a copy of the foregoing be sent to the Mayor of Richmond.

In support of these resolutions he also read the following extract from a private letter from Richmond:

Terrible as the first result of the calamity at our State House was in the killed, the developments since in the suffering maimed and their dependent families, and the families of the dead, is heart-rending indeed. The more we investigate the more imperative are the demands for aid. Thanking you for your kind expressions of sympathy for our stricken people, we are free to say, that any pecuniary aid that may be sent from your city, for the benefit of those left destitute by the recent calamity, will be thankfully received and be properly distributed.

Mr. S. B. CHITTENDEN and Gen. P. M. WETMORE having made appropriate remarks, the resolutions were unanimously adopted. The following Committee to receive subscriptions was appointed by the her and neglected to provide for her to the best of his ability. It is understood that at least five years of the married life of McFarland will thus be gone over.

Detailed Report of the Nineteenth Day's Proceedings—Testimony as to Intoxication and Threats—Mrs. Calhoun-Runkle on the Witness Stand—All About these Letters.

LUTHER HORTON.

Thss was the first witness called yesterday. He was acquainted with McFarland in 1863, and knew him intimately. He testified as follows:

Beside in Tenth-avenue, New-York City; was Deputy United States Marshal in 1863; was then acquainted with the prisoner; he was then Assistant Provost-Marshal, I think.

Q.—At any time during your acquaintance with him did you ever notice him to be in a state of intoxication? [Mr. Graham objected to this question, which was, however, allowed, and exception taken.] A.—I did, on the corner of Broadway and Chambers-street, at Delmonico's; it was early in the day; his condition was such that he could not walk, and I took him home in a coach; this was done on my own motion; I had a conversation with him while we were riding in the coach; he seemed to be able to talk well enough, but he did not have the use of his limbs.

Cross-examined—I made a deposition in the habeas corpus case; did not do so voluntarily; some persons came to my house for the purpose of getting my deposition; do not know whether or not it was Mr. Runkle; two men came to my house to get my deposition; don't know who they were; I think that one of them said he was a Commissioner empowered by the State of Massachusetts to take testimony; witness was then a friend of the prisoner; had not been previously subpœnaed in the habeas corpus case; the two men called and took the deposition at my house; I have never seen them since; I got a subpœna two or three days ago as to my being wanted as a witness on this trial; this was at Delmonico's; witness went there to get a drink and to meet a party whom he desired to see; never saw the prisoner drink anything myself; prisoner was in company with no one when he came into Delmonico's; he was alone; am certain that I saw him conversing with no one while there; the interview lasted between him and myself about five minutes; I do not know any one by the name of Capt. Turner.

JAMES GAMBLE.

Lives at Woodside, N. J.; lived there four years in September last; saw the prisoner once before this day of the shooting, and that was in my store in Newark, N. J.; he asked me if I knew Mr. Richardson; I said I did not, but that I knew that a family of that name resided at Woodside; he then asked if I knew where he (prisoner) could find him; I told him that probably he could find out from Mr. Myer J. Anson, who lives in the vicinity; the prisoner then made a statement of his grievances; he said that Mr. Richardson had alienated the affections of his wife from him, and that he should shoot him on sight; he said, also, that Richardson had stolen his wife; he said nothing else that witness could recollect; witness and the prisoner were conversing together for about five or ten minutes.

Cross-examined—The prisoner said that he had been referred to witness by Mr. James A. Alden; I know Mr. Alden; can't say that Mr. Alden sent prisoner to me; I can't remember that prisoner spoke to me of being in pursuit of his youngest child, and that he was determined to have it; I will not say positively that he did not make such a remark; can't say that the threat he made to shoot Richardson was not dependent on the surrender of his boy; he seemed to be somewhat excited at the time, but he talked intelligently; do not remember what he said was his principal object in coming to me; I mentioned, after the shooting, to some of my family the fact of McFarland's having been in my store, and a Miss Douglass told me I would probably be a witness; Miss Douglass lives near Richardson's house, at Woodside; I never saw Mr. Richardson, to my knowledge; cannot say that I advised McFarland not to execute the threat he had made as to shooting Richardson; it was my impression that, judging from what he said, he would execute his threat; would have said to him something dissuasive if he were a friend of mine; a man don't always attempt to carry out his threats, and it was because I knew this that I said nothing to McFarland when he made the threat.

MEYER J'ANSON.

Live at Woodside; was there in November last; prisoner on that day came to my house at four P. M.; it was the day after Thanksgiving Day; he came there, he said, to inquire about the sale of Mr. Richardson's place, the sale of which had been advertised; I told him that I did not think Richardson's place was for sale; he said yes, it is advertised to be sold; I then pointed to another house, and told him that was for sale, but, so far as I knew, Richardson's was not; he then asked where Richardson was, and who kept house for him; I told him Mr. Richardson had been to Kansas, and that now he had gone to Massachusetts, and that I thought he would be home that night; I said that Richardson had broken up housekeeping about a month ago, and that his children had gone somewhere; that was about all the conversation we had; I never saw him at any other time; Thanksgiving Day was on the 19th of November, I believe; I know that the conversation I have detailed with McFarland was the day after Thanksgiving; he seemed to be rational when he talked with me; the interview lasted twenty minutes or half an hour; witness was acquainted with Richardson; first saw him one year ago last March; sold him the house he lived in at Woodside; witness lived in it for about five weeks after sold, while Richardson was fitting it up; he moved in; three children, a housekeeper, and a serving woman formed his family; witness' house is about 100 feet from Richardson's; when prisoner came in he did not tell me who he was, nor where he lived.

Cross-examined—I do not know of my own knowledge that Mr. Richardson went to Kansas; I heard so; know that he was gone about six weeks; he went away in September; it was two or three days before Thanksgiving Day that he came home; he may have gone away in October previous; at the time when he went, as I thought, to California was in July previous; he was at home about one month between his return from California and his departure for Kansas; never saw the female known as Mrs. Richardson before January last; I sold the house at Woodside in March, and gave possession of it to Richardson on April 1; the purchase money was $9,000; I was paid $1,500 cash, and the balance by a mortgage on bond and mortgage; I have seen the little boy known as Danny first saw him about one month ago; I understood he was the prisoner's son; when I asked him what his name was he said it was Sage—Danny Sage; this was about two weeks ago; I did not observe a strange look about the prisoner's eye when he called upon me; it was nearly dusk on that occasion, and I had no great opportunity to observe his face closely.

Redirect—I think Mr. Richardson went to California in July, 1869; I know that he went to Avondale, after the great coal-mining disaster, and after he came back from there he went to Kansas; when he called on me to buy the house he said he was a widower; he did not say that he was going to marry.

JAMES S. MERIAM

Is a lawyer and lives in Brooklyn; has an office in William-street, in this City; has been a lawyer since 1855 or 1856; first knew the prisoner in 1860; had a suit against him in that year; about two days before the shooting witness met prisoner in Broadway, near Cedar-street; spoke to him concerning the business matters between them; asked him if he was not making money now, and if he could not pay something on the judgment which witness had obtained against him; he said he was not making much money, and could not pay on the judgment; prisoner then told witness that he had been to Wisconsin and had there seen the plaintiff in the suit (witness' client;) that he had had very pleasant relations with that plaintiff while there, and that he (prisoner) was not pressed by the plaintiff for money; prisoner then spoke of some property in Greenwich-street which witness had attached in pursuance of the suit and judgment against him (prisoner;) he said it was worth more now than when the suit was begun; that it was now worth $40,000; witness said no, it is not worth $20,000; the conversation between us lasted about ten minutes; witness had not pressed the prisoner for about three years previously; it was in 1860 I prosecuted the suit against him. Question—What steps were then taken? (Objected to by Mr. Graham and objection overruled.)

Witness continuing—I attached his house in Greenwich-street, New-York, his property in Queens County, and a boat; this latter I afterward released, as it was proved not to be Mr. McFarland's property; the Greenwich-street house was sold, and bought in by the mortgagee; the Queens County property brought a few hundred dollars, and then there was over $1,000 unpaid, with interest.

Cross-examined—On last Friday I first knew that I was to be a witness in this case; I had communicated with the District-Attorney previously, about six weeks ago, in relation to the matter; a person called on me with regard to the matter; he came, I suppose, from the District-Attorney's office; I received a subpœna in the meantime; I had never had any previous interview with the District-Attorney; saw some one who seemed to be in authority in his office; saw Judge Davis also there at the same time; have not examined any papers or documents in the case I have referred to, to refresh my memory, except to two or three copies of letters in my letter-book; these letters were sent to my client in Wisconsin; name is Chauncey L. Williams; the property in Greenwich-street was sold at Sheriff's sale; saw McFarland on the 23d of November, I think; I observed no particular change in his appearance at the time; I thought he had been drinking at the time; his face was very much flushed; saw no change in his eye, nor in the color of his hair; his hair may have been more sandy-complexioned when I first saw him; I did not, on the 23d, conclude that he was greatly dissipated; smelt no liquor on his breath; my impression as to his dissipation is very vague; I can't recall exactly whether this impression was formed on the day I met him on Broadway, or after I heard of the shooting; I knew nothing of the prisoner's domestic troubles till after Nov. 25, 1869; I attached his property because he was a non-resident.

MARK M. POMEROY.

This is the famous "Brick" Pomeroy, of this City, who testified as follows:

I reside in the City of New-York, and am the editor and proprietor of the Democrat; I first saw the prisoner sometime during the Presidential canvass of 1868, I think in September; he called on me at the office of the daily Democrat, and wished me to purchase certain letters which he had then and there in his possession, and to publish the same in the Democrat, informing me that they contained the full particulars of the debauchery of his wife by Mr. Richardson, who was connected with the Tribune.

A SINGULAR STATEMENT.

He stated that Mr. Greeley and others connected with the Tribune were running a free-love establishment of some kind, and that by publishing these letters I could make a sensation and get even with Greeley for what he had said against me; there were several of the letters and he thought they were worth $100; he said Richardson was one of the employes of the Tribune and had won the affections of his wife, and by publishing these letters I could show to the world the actions and belief of the Tribune in giving an appointment to a man who was going around the country on that kind of business; he showed me a package of letters, but I did not read them.

DECLINED TO MAKE A SENSATION.

I told him I did not care to publish or to purchase them; whatever fight I might have with Greeley, it did not extend to his reporters; I presumed that newspaper reporters were very much alike in being able to attend to their own business; I didn't consider Mr. Greeley any more responsible for the acts of his reporters than I was for mine; I did not care to mix in with a private matter, or make war with Greeley for Richardson's acts, and that I did not care to purchase of any man the evidence of his wife's misfortune; I remember he said it would make a good sensation and add to the circulation of the Democrat; I told him I did not care to add its circulation by engaging in that style of fight, and didn't care to purchase from any man letters relating to the character of his wife, and that I thought that a man who would buy such material was no better than parties proposing to market the same; he then put the letters in his pocket, and I stepped out of my private office with him, saying that that was the last offer of matter for publication which I had ever had, and it was about the most singular one I had ever known in my newspaper experience.

HIS MANNER.

His manner was like that of the reporters who often visit the office for the purpose of selling information or articles which editors may wish to buy to add interest to their columns; I noticed no excitement about him; he appeared like a man on business, having matter to dispose of and anxious to make money by the sale of his manuscript; I have never seen him since that time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Graham—I first knew that I was to be a witness in this case about forty minutes ago; I was asked whether I had ever been requested by McFarland to purchase his letters on Saturday last; that was the first time I had ever heard anything or testifying here; I told Mr. Whittaker, my cashier, and Mr. Saxe, some four or five weeks ago, that I had lost an opportunity to make a sensation; that was the first time I had said anything about McFarland's offer, except to Mr. Whittaker, with whom I had conversed on the subject before; since speaking about it four or five weeks ago nothing more was said about it until last Saturday; when a manuscript is offered for publication and rejected, there is no understanding that the matter is secret and confidential unless some request to the effect is made; at least that is the case in my office; I cannot speak positively; the New-York Democrat was first published on the 15th of August, 1868, but my newspaper experience dates from 1853; I published the La Crosse Democrat as early as 1860; that was a daily paper sometimes regarded as sensational.

DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT THE LETTERS.

I did not read the letters which McFarland brought to me, and I do not know of my own knowledge that the intercepted letter or the others which have been put in evidence were among them; he mentioned the names of Calhoun and Sinclair, but I know only from what he stated to me what the character of the letters was; I did not read them or look at them, except that I saw them in his hand, in rather a dirty-looking envelope; I visited the District-Attorney's office on Saturday last, but not on this business, though I was then asked about it and related the circumstance which I have mentioned; there is no more feeling existing between myself and Mr. Greeley than is usual between Republicans and Democrats.

Counsel—Did McFarland strike you as a drinking man?

"BRICK'S" JOKE.

Witness—I should not take him for a temperance lecturer.

Counsel—That is not very becoming, Mr. Pomeroy. A man is on trial for his life, and your wit is out of place here.

Witness—I did not consider it wit.

Mr. Graham—I do not consider it so either.

Witness continues—During the war Mr. Greeley wrote a very bitter article against me and called for my arrest and incarceration; I have written articles against him, but I had not published any announcement that I desired information against Mr. Greeley and would pay for it; McFarland said nothing to me of a suit against Richardson, or about his poverty; I had never seen him before and knew nothing of his position; I did not know of his being in public employment at $5 a day at that time, but I have since understood that he held a public position.

The question whether this witness did not regard the offer of these letters for publication as an evidence of irresistible was objected to and excluded, an exception being taken by the defense. The witness was willing to swear that to the best of his knowledge the prisoner at the bar was the man who came to him with the letters, but he would not swear "beyond the possibility of mistake" to the identity of any man.

JAMES W. SCHERMERHORN.

I am the publisher of the American Educational Monthly, at No. 14 Bond-street; Mr. McFarland brought me an article for publication early in January, 1869, and it was published in the March number; the proof-sheets are in his own, and I paid him $26 for it; when he first came he said he was recommended by Mr. G. P. Putnam, and I told him I would read his article and give him an answer in a few days; when he called the second time we conversed only on the condition of the public schools forty years ago; I then considered his proposed article (produced and identified); he appeared business-like, quiet and self-possessed; he seemed to me perfectly rational.

A SOPHOMORIC PRODUCTION.

Mr. Graham, on the cross-examination, asked the witness whether there was anything in the article to indicate when it was written, claiming that it was a sophomorical production and might have been written when the prisoner was a boy and sold when he was a man. The witness said that a good many articles had also regarded it as sophomorical, but it was represented at the time to be a recent composition, and he thought then that there were evidences of its being such, but he could not point them out now on examination of the printed article.

The Court here took a recess for half an hour, after which the testimony for the prosecution was continued.

JOEL B. ERHARDT.

I was Provost-Marshal from the commencement of the war to its close; never saw him (the prisoner) under the influence of liquor; met him in Brooklyn two or three weeks after the first shooting; he said he wished to show me the intercepted letter; he said he did not shoot Richardson because he thought his wife was unchaste, but because he thought Richardson had done wrong toward him; he said he came to me to have me testify in the proceedings in Boston that I had never seen him drunk, and I did so testify; he said that if Richardson had anything more to do with his wife until she was divorced he was in a perilous path.

Cross-examination—To Mr. Gerry—I am certain he told me he had sued Richardson for abducting his wife; he was very nervous and excited; I do not think he was irrational; his movements were excited; he kept twisting about in his chair; he generally did twist about in his chair; he read the intercepted letter; was calm while reading it, but became excited afterward; a coolness existed from that time on McFarland's side, not on witness'; never saw him since that interview.

JOHN BAKER.

This witness, who was a clerk in the Provost Marshal's office at the time McFarland was employed there, testified that he had seen defendant very much excited, but could not say that he was drunk; he acted as if under the influence of liquor two or three times.

JOHN STOUT.

This witness is a counsellor-at-law and knew defendant; met him in the Summer of 1868 in Beekman-street, where he spoke of a conspiracy against him, in which Mrs. Calhoun and Mrs. Sinclair were engaged, and said that Richardson should never live with his wife; do not think the word shoot or kill was used.

MRS. L. G. CALHOUN RUNKLE.

When this lady's name was called there was a hum of expectancy through the Court-room. She came forward and took her seat, appearing very composed throughout the two hours of her examination. She was plainly dressed in black, with a black velvet mantilla, and had on a brown jockey hat and gloves to match. She testified as follows:

I reside in this City, and was formerly Mrs. Calhoun; I am now married to Mr. Runkle, of this City, a member of the Bar.

Q.—Do you know the prisoner, McFarland? A.—I have seen him often.

Q.—Did you know Mrs. McFarland formerly? A.—I did.

Q.—How long have you known them? A.—I think since the 1st of January, 1868.

Q.—Do you recollect where you first met her? A.—At an evening party in the house of a friend.

Q.—Subsequent to that time down to the separation were you on intimate terms? A.—I have seen her often and Mr. McFarland seldom.

Q.—Where were you in the habit of seeing her? A.—Usually in my own house.

Q.—You were then residing in the City? A.—I was, and she came to see me almost daily.

Q.—Where did you reside then? A.—At No. 77 Clinton-place.

Q.—Do you recollect where they were living? A.—They had several residences during the time; I cannot locate them; I should be glad to see them before the separation.

Q.—At the time you speak of, where did they reside? A.—I don't remember where they were living, but she left town early in that year.

THE TRIP TO THE WHITE MOUNTAINS.

Q.—Do you recollect where Mrs. McFarland went? A.—To the White Mountains; to Shelbourne, I think.

Q.—Well, she was at that place during the Summer; you were in correspondence with her, I think? A.—I was.

Q.—Several letters have been produced and read in this case which you wrote? A.—I presume I wrote them, but I have not read them as published.

Q.—Do you recollect how long she remained in the White Mountains? A.—Through the Summer; I think, perhaps, until September.

Q.—Do you recollect how long Mrs. McFarland remained away from the City in the Summer of 1868? A.—I think until October, possibly a little earlier than that.

Mr. Davis—I show you this letter, (produced.) Is that yours? A.—It is.

Q.—Is that the first letter you wrote her? A.—I don't think I could tell without reading it.

Q.—Glance and see (if necessary, you can read the whole of it,) if that's the first letter you wrote. It's dated June 24, 1868? A.—It is.

MRS. M'FARLAND'S READINGS.

Q.—Before Mrs. McFarland went to the White Mountains, had her going on the stage been the subject of conversation between her and you?

Mr. Graham—I object; they cannot make anything against McFarland by a conversation which they held together.

Mr. Davis—I don't propose to call out the conversation, but the fact that that matter had been the subject of conversation.

Mr. Graham—I shan't object to that question, if it stops there.

Question repeated. A.—She had given a reading in April before she went away, after which she had a conversation.

Q.—From time had she been accustomed to give readings?

Mr. Graham objected. It did not seem that Mrs. McFarland's deportment in that particular was the subject of investigation, but the conduct of Mr. McFarland was on trial.

Mr. Davis—We propose to show the fact that she gave these readings on various occasions; that he was present and manifested his approval of them.

Recorder—Was that before the separation?

HOW MRS. M'FARLAND CAME TO GO ON THE STAGE.

Mr. Davis—Before. We propose to show, in substance, that her going on the stage had been a long-considered subject between herself and her husband. I will state definitely what we expect to prove on the subject. In 1861, after a failure on the part of the prisoner to procure office under Mr. Lincoln's Administration, he and his wife went to Madison to reside. They remained there about fifteen months, and during that period he was living on the remnants of certain property he had in this City. During that time Mrs. McFarland had given several public readings in that city, and particularly had given one for the benefit of the Soldiers' Aid Society, established for the purpose of raising by the means of relief for wounded soldiers. She was successful; so much so as to call out great encomium. Her husband at that time proposed to her that, as she had manifested such dramatic talent, it would be better for her to return to New-York and take lessons under some proper instructor, fitting her for the stage. When this investigation which we have made of all the circumstances of the case, that these young ladies have not in this matter taken one single step except from the pure kindness of their own noble hearts, and if we can show anything of that kind must we lie down under the base charge that they are "panderers and procuresses," taking an innocent wife from the embrace of a husband to hand her over to pollution? If that be true, alas! Courts of justice are justly a scorn and a reproach in the land. I hope I will be allowed to read this letter.

A WIFE CANNOT TESTIFY AGAINST HER HUSBAND.

Recorder—I should be glad to permit the testimony you seek to show for the purpose of vindicating this lady or any other persons who may consider themselves unjustly assailed, but the rule is inflexible on this subject, and I must bow to that decision of the law which forbids the husband or wife to be examined for or against the other. I must exclude the evidence.

Witness—I went to Washington during that Winter, or early in February, in the company of Mrs. Sinclair and some other friends; I remained there six or seven weeks, but the others left much sooner.

Q.—While you were in Washington did you receive a letter from Mrs. McFarland? A.—I had two letters from her.

Q.—Did you receive a letter to which the letter of the [illegible] February, which has been published, is an answer? A.—I did, Sir.

Q.—At what time did you receive that letter? A.—Perhaps a fortnight or three weeks after I went away.

THE WASHINGTON LETTER.

Q.—To that letter the one I hold in my hand is your answer? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you that letter now? A.—No; I destroyed it some twelve months ago, with many others.

Q.—Have you searched to see if it can be found? A.—I searched every file of papers I possess, but could not find it.

Q.—Do you remember its contents? A.—I do, Mr. Davis—Am I at liberty to show what was the contents of the letter which called out this letter? I do not see on what ground we are to be precluded from showing the letter to which this is a reply, for the simple reason that the reply of any letter can never be properly understood without knowing the contents of the letter to which it was a reply. It would be a very great perversion of the rules of law that a party may make use of a letter written in response to another, if the letter was not permitted to be read to exclude any injury the other may have effected.

Recorder—I cannot conceive it is a competent question. The jury will have to judge from the reflection of that letter what it replies to, and they will be able to deal with it.

WHAT IS SOUGHT TO BE SHOWN.

Mr. Davis—I offer to prove that before writing this letter of the 23d February Mrs. Calhoun received from Mrs. McFarland a letter in which Mrs. McFarland stated to her that she had been for a period of several days living in a state of perfect torture; that he had been intoxicated; that during that period she had bespoken her the greatest abuse, and appealing to her and to Mrs. Sinclair for their advice as to what she ought to do under the circumstances—depicting the defendant in a manner which justified her leaving him, but calling on her friends to know what would be the most judicious course in that respect, and that to such a letter that was an answer.

Recorder—It may be in the interest of a bad woman to write such a letter to further the designs she may have in view. I exclude it.

Witness—I returned from Washington on the 11th or 12th of March and saw Mrs. McFarland after my arrival. She had been performing in the Winter Garden on the preceding evening, but I don't know whether she played afterward. I think she went to Boston about a week after this.

MRS. M'FARLAND AND RICHARDSON.

Q.—Up to that point of time you never received this letter, had you ever heard, supposed or suspected that there were any improper relations between Mrs. McFarland and Mr. Richardson? A.—Never.

Q.—Did you ever know or hear of any intention on the part of any person whatever to bring these two parties—Mr. Richardson and Mrs. McFarland—together for any purpose? A.—Never.

Q.—Had you any intention of that character or nature in the correspondence that you had at any time with Mrs. McFarland?

Mr. Graham objected. It was putting it where Mr. Greeley had placed it that morning and invested it of its public character. He understood Mr. Greeley had that day printed a statement of his connection with the case in the papers vindicating his own conduct, and this was carrying out that principle of vindication.

The Recorder considered that the evidence was admissible.

Question repeated. Witness—Never.

Q.—By what motives were you governed in all your relations with this family?

Mr. Graham—We have that in evidence, and my construction of her letters, we maintain, is correct. We charge that this correspondence, which was escaped from the pen of this woman, warrants another interpretation; that this was the interpretation adopted by the prisoner, and that it was one of the promoting causes of mental derangement.

The Recorder permitted the question.

Witness—I wished simply to enable her to earn a livelihood for herself and her children.

Cross-examined by Mr. Graham—I have not disbursed any money for the purpose of this prosecution, nor has my husband to my knowledge; I have not been concerned in procuring private counsel to engage in the case nor am I aware that he has; I have not seen any of the witnesses for the purposes of supplying the testimony in this case; I do not remember the name of the washer-woman Mrs. McFarland who was examined in this case, for I have read none of the evidence given in it; I have not written any article for any newspaper in reference to this occurrence since the 25th of November, 1869, nor have I caused any to be written; neither have I written any letters to any one to be published in reference to this trial.

THE SILK RIBBON CASE.

The United States vs. Sixteen Cases Containing Silk Ribbons.—This case, which has occupied the attention of the Court for the past three weeks, was concluded yesterday. It was an information, tried before a jury, for the forfeiture of the above property, valued at about $40,000, on the ground that it was undervalued in the invoices. The ribbons were imported from Basle, Switzerland, by steamers Java, Ville de Paris, and New-York, and were seized on Sept. 15, by Frey, Thurneysen & Carist, of Basle, the manufacturers, appeared as claimants, by John J. Thomas as their agent, and consigee in this City. The law requires that such goods shall be invoiced at their market value at the place where they are purchased or manufactured, and the Government endeavored to prove that the law had not been complied with. The defence, by showing that at about the time these goods were imported, proposals for the purchase of similar goods were made by W. B. Farwell and others, to several European houses which manufactured them, and among others to the claimants in this case, and that the prices named were much higher than those given in the invoices in the present case. For the claimants, whose evidence had been taken on interrogatories before the United States Consul at Basle, it was contended that the ribbons could not be said to have any market value at Basle, as there was no exchange for merchandise in that place, but that each manufacturer makes up his own prices by calculating the price of the raw material and the wages paid to operatives, which together constitute the cost of manufacture, and then adding five per cent. as the manufacturer's profit. That the prices inserted in the invoices in the present case were calculated in this manner; that when Farwell visited the firm of Frey, Thurneysen & Christ, at Basle, he represented himself as a purchaser from Montreal; that he was not known to the house and brought no references, and they supposed his purchases were to be made for smuggling purposes, and therefore asked from him a higher price than from the legitimate trade.

The jury returned a verdict for the claimants, releasing the property. Stay of proceedings for thirty days granted.

For the Government, District-Attorney Pierrepont and W. G. Choate; for the claimants, E. W. Stoughton and Webster & Craig.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.—MAY 2.

Before Judge Jones and a Jury.

CAN A LIVERY-STABLE KEEPER HIRE OUT A HORSE BOARDED?

Edwin M. Kellogg vs. John and Francis McNichol.—Plaintiff is a physician, and had his horse boarding at the stable of defendants. He charges that defendants, without his (plaintiff's) consent, let the horse to "Tom, Dick and Harry," whereby the animal was "used, abused and injured" to the extent of $1,-800. To recover this amount action is now brought, and, in addition to a general denial, defendants set up a board-bill of $27. The jury found a verdict for $13 in favor of plaintiff, over and above defendants' bill of $27, which was allowed them.

The Court then adjourned to this morning at 11 o'clock.

The City Hall—The New Tax Commissioner—Organization of the Commissioners of Docks.

It was generally supposed that some important changes would have been made in the Mayor's office yesterday, and that at least one official would have been removed; but it appears that all misunderstandings have been explained and that the clerical force of the office will remain as at present.

Controller CONNOLLY, under the new Tax Levy, has the power of appointing an additional Commissioner of Taxes. If he should exercise this power, he would, of course, have to appoint a Democrat, and this would give the Democrats a majority in the Board. As it was understood, when the new Board was organized, that it should be equally divided politically, he hesitates to avail himself of the power granted him, and perhaps will waive his rights of appointment altogether.

The Commissioners of Docks met in the Controller's office yesterday and organized by electing JOHN T. AGNEW, President, and RICHARD M. HENRY, Secretary. They then adjourned, and until they are able to obtain suitable offices will not transact any public business.

The new City Chamberlain yesterday transmitted to the Controller $6,363 54, being interest received on public moneys during April.

Police Matters.

At a meeting of the Board of Police, yesterday, a resolution was adopted opening the case of Dr. CHRISTOPHER KIERSTED for further hearing, and it was referred to the Board of Surgeons for another report of his treatment of the case of Patrolman DOWLING. The Board also made THOMAS J. KENNEDY, of the Sixth Precinct, a full Captain of Police, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the promotion of Capt. JOURDAN to be Superintendent. A communication being received from Col. WALTER W. PRICE, notifying the Board of the organization of the Board of Excise, and asking the co-operation of the Board of Police in the enforcement of the new Excise law, and also asking that the Excise Commissioners be furnished with a full list of all places in the City where liquors are sold, Superintendent JOURDAN was directed to furnish the desired list.

Gold Room, which stood at 115¼@115¾ for a short time in the morning, became somewhat sluggish, and the quotation fell off to 114¾@115 ₱ cent. The first impression as to the effect of the May sales of $4,000,000 advertised by the Secretary of the Treasury, was that gold would probably advance, or in any event rule firm, but this feeling was not strong enough to keep the market long above the closing 115 ₱ cent. quotation of Saturday night.

In the Railway Market at the Stock Exchange business was not quite so active as on Friday or Saturday last, and as the Brokers reported a quick demand for Money at 5@6 ₱ cent. on account of the heavy settlements to be made and the shifting of loans consequent upon the enormous transactions of last week, there was a reaction of 1@2 ₱ cent. for a short time late in the day, followed by a steadier feeling at the close of dealings. The following figures were made between 5 and 6 o'clock P. M. on Broad-street. The Foreign Exchanges were quiet today at 109¼ for 60 days London, some of the Bankers allowing a brokerage off this rate.

At the annual election at the Produce Exchange, today, the following was the successful ticket:

For Trustees—Francis M. French, John S. Williams, Edward Cromwell, Stephen W. Carey, Stephen D. Harrison, George D. Cragin, Robert J. Randolph, Francis P. Sage, Isaac H. Reed.

For Inspectors of Election—Gilbert Oakley, John S. Sutphen, Theodore B. Woolsey.

The Philadelphia Ledger says of the Coal trade:

"Among the excitements connected more or less directly with the Anthracite coal trade the past week are the public sales of Scranton coal, which show a small degline in prices, and the granting of an injunction by Justice READ, of the Supreme Court, restraining the Reading Railroad Company from allotting to new parties certain wharf room at Port Richmond. The coal trade proper the past week was unchanged from that of the previous week. The Schuylkill region is producing very little coal, and the operators express themselves as determined not to give in to what they consider the unreasonable demands of the miners. The supply of coal from the other regions is about equal to the current demand, so that trade and prices rule very nearly steady. The Reading Railroad Company brought down of all kinds for the week ending on the 26th ultimo, 45,255 tons, against 39,454 tons in the previous week, and for the fiscal year, beginning Dec. 1, 1,073,270 tons, against 1,287,297 tons to corresponding time last year—a decrease of 214,026 tons. The total product of all the anthracite regions for the week, as far as reported by the several carrying companies, is 286,443 tons, against 309,632 tons the previous week—a decrease of 16,189 tons—and for the fiscal year 3,975,768 tons, against 4,017,342 tons to the same dates last year—showing a decrease of 43,574 tons. The demand for coal is by no means urgent and prices rule weak at about last week's quotations. There is hardly enough coal at Port Richmond to warrant a reliable quotation. Freights are inactive and unchanged."

The Mark Lane Express, of April 18, remarks:

"The frequent sunshine of the past week has raised the temperature, but when the sun has been absent the air has still been cold for the time of year, and we have to not yet had our quota of rain. Field-work has, however, advanced a pace, and there is very little more sowing to be done; and this, though late, has been very satisfactorily accomplished from the pulverized state of the soil. A genial time henceforth would soon work wonders in germinating the seed-corn and improving the Wheat, about which some are beginning to doubt, it being badly reported in the Fens and other localities, but June will more distinctly tell us what we may expect. The altered weather, the opening Baltic and the holidays have all contributed to increase our dullness, and the Wheat trade has given way for the last fortnight to the extent of fully 1s., while our deliveries still keep largely in excess of last year, indicating the pressure on the farming interest from bad crops, or continued apprehensions of large foreign imports. The Baltic is certainly opening, and we may now have some first quality corn to regulate the low sorts which have been lately working off from our granaries; but shippers there see prices much too close for a free trade, and there are few sanguine enough here, after the late losses, to become free importers. Even in America prices have not yet adjusted themselves to British markets, notwithstanding their present depression. The inferior qualities of the Danube, as well as much on the Azoff and Odessa, will only suit one certain class of millers here; and those who mark the difference between the best townmade flour and the Norfolk make, will see that such branches of business must be distinct. Fifty shillings is still given for the best new Dansic Wheat, but some inferior Russian sorts are not worth over 36s. With a difference of 15s. then, in Wheat, there should be a difference in the sacks of Flour of 12s. Now, as with the generally-admitted abundance abroad, there is a scarcity of fine samples, why should English farmers, who have this quality, throw away their only chance, as they near the close of the season, especially when the top price of Flour is only 40s. per sack, and there seems no prospect of any further reduction on this side harvest?"

The arrivals off the coast since April 9 were 19 cargoes, of which 9 cargoes were Wheat, 5 Maize, 3 Barley, 1 Oats, 1 Beans. Business was reported as follows: Wheat, 9 cargoes in all, viz.: California, 47s.; Sandomirka, 42s. 6d.; Ghirka, 39s. @ 40s. 6d.; Polish, 41s. 6d. Maize, 18 cargoes in all at 28s. @ 31s., and 40,000 quarters for shipment at 27s. 6d. @ 29s. Barley, 2 cargoes in all, at 32s. @ 34s. Oats, 1 cargo Theodosia at 17s. 6d. The sales of English Wheat noted last week were 59,869 quarters at 42s. 8d., against 56,873 quarters at 47s. in 1869. The London averages were 45s. 2d. on 4,892 quarters. The imports into the Kingdom for the week ending April 9 were 390,681 cwts. Wheat and 74,163 cwts. Flour."

Another Large Arrival of Emigrants—Who and What They Are.

As an indication of the greatly increased emigration that will find its way to the United States from ports in the Baltic during the current year, we learn on authority that arrangements were completed some time since to convey, during the Summer and Fall months, about 50,000 Scandinavians, Swedes, Norwegians and Danes, to this port. The first installment of the season landed yesterday at Castle Garden. The number was 1,133. They were passengers on RUKER & Co.'s steam-ship Ocean Queen, from Copenhagen and other ports in the North Sea. They appeared to be a stalwart and industrious class of people. The destination of these new arrivals is the West—Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin. In addition to those mentioned, the steam-ship Deutschland, from Bremen, brought 613 emigrants, nearly all Germans. The arrangements for the safe landing and subsequent dispatch to their new homes of this large number of persons, were carried out in a simple and effective manner under the direction of Mr. BERNARD CASSERLY, the General Superintendent. The new Board of Emigration will probably organize today.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

A Paris dispatch says another arrest of an armed man was made on Sunday at the racecourse where the Emperor was expected. He proved to be an insane Englishman, and had no connection with the conspiracy, although it was said that at his residence a quantity of bombs were discovered. The ramifications of the plot are said to be wider than at first supposed, and arrests continue to be made in all directions. Addresses congratulating the Emperor on the discovery of the plot are received by him and published in the Journal Officiel....The political meetings on Sunday were very exciting, and in some instances were dissolved by the Police. A radical journal yesterday published a document signed by MM. CREMIEUX, JULES FAVRE, PELLETAN, SIMON, and others, declaring the expulsion of CERNUSCHI, the Italian banker, illegal, and resorted to in the interest of a political party. The banker has gone to Geneva. The advocates of the affirmative in the coming plebiscite have distributed journals containing full accounts of the recent conspiracy against the Emperor's life, in support of an affirmative vote....The students of the School of Medicine listened patiently to Dr. TARDIEU, yesterday, on the reopening of the College, but when he was leaving he was insulted again, and obliged to ask the protection of the Police....The Irish Land bill and the bill to inquire into monastic institutions was under consideration yesterday, in the House of Commons....Hon. JOHN JAY, our Minister to Austria, is in London....The English cotton weavers are taking measures to secure an advance in wages....Among the English delegates who have signified their intention to attend the Protestant Conference to meet in this City, are Lord ALFRED CHURCHILL, the Earl of CAVAN and several members of the House of Commons....A propeller, seven yards long, is announced to sail from Liverpool for New-York in a few days....Cardinal CULLEN has issued another pastoral letter against Fenianism, Freemasonry and the proposed inquiry into monastic institutions....It is intimated that Gen. LINDSAY, who will command the Red River expedition, will remain as Governor of the territory.... The race between KELLEY and BRIGHT, on the Tyne yesterday, was won by KELLEY....The reported assassination of the Italian Consul at Buenos Ayres is confirmed....The reply of Cardinal ANTONELLI to Count DARU is that the Pope declines to lay the note before the Council. The Bishops who absented themselves because the infallibility question was pressed have been urged by telegraph to return to Rome.

CONGRESS.

Yesterday was a busy day in both Houses. In the Senate, among the bills passed were the following: For the relief of those made widows and orphans by the Oneida disaster; the House bill extending the time thirty days for Texas officials to file the oath of office; extending to Government prisoners the State system of credits for good behavior; incorporating the District of Columbia Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; repealing certain acts of the Wyoming Legislature, and several railway land grant bills. The bill increasing the number of Supreme Court Judges was postponed indefinitely. Of the bills introduced, was one to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment, and another to reimburse the State of Kansas for war expenses. Of the resolutions, was one in reference to giving the Government free use of new patents issued. Advanced reports were received on the petitions for full pay to retired naval officers, for the abolition of the West Point Academy, and against the increase of the number of cadets. A favorable report was received on the House resolution donating one year's pay as Secretary of War to the family of the late Gen. RAWLINS, and it was placed on the calendar. At 4:50 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

In the House a large number of new bills were introduced, among them the following: Authorizing the Government to retain moneys due the Pacific Roads as indemnity for unpaid interest on bonds; for the removal of all political disabilities; for the appointment of Shipping Commissioners to look after the merchant marine; repealing the act limiting pension applications to five years; for steam-ship mail service between Cedar Keys and Havana; incorporating the Washington Transatlantic Steam-ship Company, and another bill for the relief of J. ROSS BROWNE. A bill granting a pension of $3,000 annually to Mrs. LINCOLN was passed; also, a resolution requesting the intercession of the President for the pardon of JOHN GALLAGHER, of New-Jersey, an imprisoned Fenian. A resolution looking to an immediate settlement of the Alabama claims was referred, the House refusing to second the previous question by a vote of 75 to 40. A resolution was unanimously adopted fixing May 30 as Decoration Day, and making it a public holiday. At 1½ P. M. the tariff debate was resumed, and considerable progress made with the bill. At 5½ P. M. the House adjourned until 11 A. M. today, a resolution to that effect having been previously adopted.

GENERAL.

A Washington dispatch says the Sioux are the principal tribe of Indians whose dissatisfaction may break out in open war. The War Department has ordered all available troops to the plains to guard the Pacific Railroad. The official reports show that the failure to comply with treaty obligations is the cause of the restlessness of the savages.

Advices from Fort Sully represent that the Cheyenne Agency was in possession of the Indians, and the officers and men made prisoners. The Indians had slaughtered large numbers of cattle, the carcasses of which were seen on the shores and sand-bars.

The Government at Washington, up to yesterday morning, had received nothing to confirm or strengthen the reported capture of the Morro, at Havana, by the Spanish volunteers. The latter, it is conceded, control the authorities on the island. Gen. JORDAN, it is said, left Cuba because his term of service had expired, and he is now an accredited agent of the insurgents, and on his way to this country.

A Quebec dispatch says the steam-ships Germany and City of Quebec came into collision on Sunday off Green Island, and the latter sank in deep water in half an hour after they struck. An engineer and a passenger of the Quebec were lost.

The annual meeting of the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church began on Sunday in San Francisco, when Bishop KIP officiated and Dr. VINTON delivered the missionary sermon.

Alarming intelligence of short crops in California is received in San Francisco from all parts of the State.

The public debt statement published this morning shows that the reduction of the debt for the month is $11,697,793; the coin balance $115,525,000, including $33,840,000 in coin certificates, and the currency balance $6,954,000.

At a meeting of the contributors of the Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia yesterday, a resolution of WILLIAM WELSH was adopted by a viva voce vote, providing for separate clinics for females if practicable. There was considerable discussion before the adoption of the resolution.

The grand chess tournament at Baden-Baden, which is to commence on the 15th of July, promises to eclipse any tournament which has yet taken place. Among many distinguished chess-players there will be found Herr Anderssen, Neumann, De Rivierè, Suhle, Harrwitz, S. Loyd, F. Perrin, Blackburn, Steinitz and L. Paulsen.

The trial of MCFARLAND was continued yesterday, when ten witnesses were examined, and among them was Mrs. RUNKLE, formerly Mrs. CALHOUN, who was given an opportunity to explain her letters, which have occasioned so much comment.

JOS. R. LOBINSON, another victim of the Richmond calamity, died yesterday.

The Public Debt.

The first of May Schedule of the Public Debt of the United States, issued last night from Washington, affords the gratifying information that nearly twelve millions of dollars of the principal of the debt have been paid off since April 1, out of the surplus revenues of the month. The United States Five-twenties, which the present Administration, since their accession to the conduct of the Government finances, have been able to purchase and now hold in the Sinking Fund, is $110,849,843. The actual net decrease in the public debt, funded and unfunded, since March 4, 1869, is $104,598,945. The annual saving of interest on the funded debt, by the operation of the Sinking Fund, is now equal to six millions six hundred thousand dollars, while the principal of the debt bearing interest in gold, is reduced from $2,107,846,000, to $1,997,093,000.

The strength of the Treasury is much greater at present, after buying over one hundred and ten millions United States Five-twenties, than on the 4th March, 1869, as well from the reduced burden of the yearly interest charge as in respect to its gold balances, which now amount to $115,525,000, as against $198,741,000 on the income of the Grant Administration. The amount of gold in the absolute ownership of the Treasury, after making provision for $33,840,000 held for private depositors, is about eighty-two million of dollars, and the calculation is that after providing for the May interest on the public debt and selling four million dollars for reinvestment in further purchases of United States Five-twenties, the Treasury will enter June with at least seventy-two millions, unless the Secretary should in the meantime be stimulated by any considerable rise in the premium to dispose of more Gold than is at present advertised to be sold. He reserves the right to accept bids for larger weekly sums than a million of dollars each Wednesday, if the prices bid should seem to make it the interest of the Treasury to increase these sales.

The Aldermanic Ticket.

We trust that Mayor HALL and his coadjutors, in the preparation of the ticket to be presented to our citizens at the forthcoming election of Aldermen, will not forget the pledges given when the new charter was under consideration at Albany. One of the essential conditions of the acceptance of that instrument was the presentation of acceptable candidates for the reconstructed Board of Aldermen. The old Aldermen had rendered themselves odious to the better portion of the community, and their removal became a requisite part of any satisfactory measure of municipal reform. The promise that strong and reputable men should be substituted for the pliant tools who have done the work of corruption and rascality, had much to do with the reception accorded to the Tweed charter.

The time is near when this promise must be fulfilled,—or violated. The election of the new men is at hand, and those of us who have helped to enact the new order of things have a right to ask what progress the Mayor and his Tammany friends have made in the preparation of an acceptable ticket. Rumors are abroad to which we cannot be indifferent. It is alleged, on authority which we cannot disregard, that under the pretense of according to the respectability, wealth and Republican opinion of the City an adequate representation at the Board, a selection is to be made from the trading element of the Republican Party—from the element, we mean, which has clung to that party for the sake of its patronage, and has made merchandise of the opportunities incident to its power. In this way, and further by the nomination of a few names hitherto dissociated from the Democratic Ring, it is intended to conciliate local opinion and earn the credit of fulfilling an important and emphatic pledge.

We tell the gentlemen concerned that this maneuver will not be successful. It may be possible, doubtless, to elect a ticket of the character foreshadowed by those who profess familiarity with the purpose of the Mayor and his friends. But the Republican Party will not acknowledge, as its proportion of the ticket, jobbers and tricksters who have made its colors the cover of corrupt tactics; nor will it be deceived by any pretense which aims at keeping the promise to the ear while breaking it in effect. If the promoters of the new charter are prepared to act fairly—if they desire to make effective the reform implied in the abolition of the old Board of Aldermen—they will discard weak and worthless names, whatever their professed political affiliations, and will give to the City a list which shall at once furnish a guarantee of upright local government, and redeem the promise with which Messrs. TWEED and HALL rescued the charter from jeopardy.

A National Railway System.

The decision of the Supreme Court, delivered by Chief-Justice CHASE, upon the right of States to tax railroads to which the United States has extended aid, and upon which it holds a pledge in the nature of a mortgage, is a very important one, not only as to the interests which it affects, but also as to the principles involved. It fully sustains the point that any corporation created by the Government as an instrumentality in the transaction of its affairs—such as the old United States Bank, for instance—could not be taxed by the States, but holds that a railroad does not come within that rule. It holds that a corporation may be an agent for the transaction of necessary service for the Government,—as for instance the carrying of mails by railroad companies,—and yet that its property should be responsive to taxation the same as any other.

In his opinion, the Chief-Justice seemed to put great stress upon the point that the road which was defendant in the case was incorporated by a State,—leaving the inference that a Federal charter would have involved new questions, and possibly a different decision. We confess that we do not readily appreciate how the source of the franchise could in any manner affect the right of the State to tax a road, or how it could change the force of the reasoning of the Court. We can see, however, how the authority of the United States might easily be damaged under the decision just made. Nothing could be easier than for a road which has been largely subsidized by the Federal Government, and which stands pledged to repay, and to render military service, to evade both by collusion, through taxation and sale. There is very little probability that anything of the kind will ever happen, but the fact that it may happen illustrates the importance of the principle involved.

The case suggests very forcibly the growing importance of devising some practical scheme of regulating the great railway system of the country. Sooner or later, it must come under Federal control and be subject to Federal laws. The tendency all over the country is toward the consolidation of short lines into long ones, which extend through several States. The mere question of taxation by those States is a trivial one compared with other considerations which are continually arising, in which not only the road but the people are concerned. Take as an illustration the Lake Shore Road, which passes through six States; or the Pacific, which extends through a country that will ultimately be cut up into twenty States. Is it to be tolerated that such corporations shall be at the mercy of the corrupt Legislatures of every State through which they pass?—or is it proper that a plaintiff against them shall be compelled to go into the courts of each of those States for judgment and execution?

Every reader who has had any experience in legal proceedings, or is familiar with railway matters as managed at present, will at once appreciate a great variety of cases in which a proper national railway law would be salutary. Railroad men, especially, are beginning to see the necessity for it which is rapidly coming. Our whole railway system is rapidly changing, and in a few years the country will be traversed in every direction by great consolidated lines under one management, each having its own policy and competitions with the others. If subjected to State control, they would become a fearful agency of corruption in the Legislatures. They would assail each other in those quarters, and if their interests should come in conflict with those of localities or of the public, it is not difficult to imagine the means which would be used at the State capitals.

The problem how best to deal with the coming difficulty is a serious one, and ought to involve grave consideration. We know that it has already received the earnest attention of some of the best minds in the country. We would not presume, now, to indicate any of the details of the plan which should be adopted; but we are confident that the American railway system must be nationalized, and very soon. It is a matter for earnest discussion, and in due time will receive it.

Our Festal May-Day.

"Keep moving," says Young Rapid; and he is a man after most New-Yorkers' own heart. Transplanting disagrees with many growths, but not with those found in Manhattan. Your friend whom yesterday you visited in Washington-square, you must seek to-morrow on the Grand Boulevard; while the fair one whose smiles in April lit up Twenty-third-street has deported her charms to the green lanes of Harlem. Presently the movers will have to be hunted up on the Bloomingdale road, and in a year or two more in the neighborhood of Jerome Park. The rolling stone may gather no moss; but what would you have? In that case, so much the worse for the moss. Clearly, no one in New-York believes that by going further he may fare worse; and the rage of most of us for getting further north is as ardent as was that of COLUMBUS for sailing into the bosom of the Occident.

The passion for change is certainly one of our national characteristics. And yet in English-speaking peoples the feeling for house—its locality as well as its lares and penates—is held to be very strong. It may be said that the change is due to our being a new people—more nomadic and less the creatures of habit than old ones. But as LANDOR, in his Imaginary Conversations, makes FRANKLIN say, "We are as old a nation as the English, although we are not so old in America as they are in England. Crossing the ocean does not make a man younger, neither does it a people." No doubt we take on in this country a nervous vivacity, a constitutional dislike of inertia, that stimulates the locomotive habit; and perhaps, too, like Young Rapid, we recognize a fillip to the spirit as obtainable from extra activity. Perpetual motion was his cure for the heart-ache, and as your true American will always rather prefer to wear out than to rust out, our Bedouin-like customs may be inspired by the preference. ARISTOTLE taught as he walked up and down, and plenty of New-York business men transact their affairs as they ride up and down; and there may be a special use and comfort in all this periodic confusion and uproar, this turning of houses topsy-turvy and carting their contents in triumph up and down the land, although to the feeble gaze of common mortals it may not always be discernible.

The misfortune is that, like ALEXANDER, we shall soon have no more worlds to conquer. To the ultimate discomfiture of our peculiar May-day festivity, the island of Manhattan is but twelve miles long. All things sweet must end at last, and we are assured by experience that their brevity is usually proportioned to their deliciousness. Even moving further up-town must, consequently, ere long, be brought to a pause. The annual pleasure, dear to so many citizens and housewives, can then only be enjoyed in memory. To be sure, people may then pile their household goods on baggage-wagons, and after a delightful perambulation of the town, may return home again. Or there may be a recoil, and as in a rough-and-tumble fight among Frenchmen, or in a general engagement on the stage of the opera, everybody may rush frantically the other way and press toward the south, as zealously as for some years they have driven toward the north. And, after the obstructions of Hell Gate are blown up, like Blossom Rock at San Francisco, and our splendid commerce comes and goes by way of the East River, why should this not be the case? So that, as in the good Dutch times of old, the Battery shall again in the sequel become the Court-end of the town, and our favorite pastime of moving in due season be begun again with a fresh world of a dozen miles long all before it where to choose.

In this prospect we may find consolation. A device is here made patent that will forever estop any pent-up Utica from contracting our powers. The right of every free-born New-Yorker to change his domicile regularly on each first of May may thus be proudly and indefinitely asserted, and the base alternative of making one leap for good and all into the wilds of New-Jersey, Westchester, Staten or Long Island, may be trampled under foot forever. Let those who are wedded by long habit and keen appreciation to the joys of annual moving be of good cheer. There is hope that their future may be one perpetual round of delight. The mutation we describe will assure them a perennial fountain of bliss, of whose enjoyment no man shall make them afraid. They may paraphrastically exclaim, with the assurance of triumph,

"Let arts, laws, learning, commerce, pass away,
But leave us still our moving on May-day."

And they may imagine themselves, with the pride befitting such a lofty distinction, to be the true modern representatives and disciples of the famous Stagirite.

Mr. Greeley and the McFarland Trial.

Mr. HORACE GREELEY has published a statement, to which his signature is attached, for the purpose of explaining the share he has had in the prosecution of MCFARLAND. It will be remembered that he admitted in his evidence that he had been instrumental in engaging counsel for the prosecution, and that he was prepared to contribute toward the expense if he were asked to do so. Mr. GREELEY now states his reasons for this active interference. Briefly stated, they are as follow: The late Mr. RICHARDSON was Mr. GREELEY's friend. In Mr. GREELEY's opinion the deceased has been "covered with obloquy." It was necessary to vindicate his memory from unjust aspersion, and therefore Mr. GREELEY consulted with the District-Attorney with regard to the employment of additional counsel.

To this statement of reasons Mr. GREELEY adds certain reflections or observations which, as it appears to us, place him in a very paradoxical position. He writes, "esteeming the hanging of sane men a mistake, I should contemplate the hanging of one insane with horror." This is quite consistent with the opinions generally ascribed to Mr. GREELEY on this subject. But it is not consistent with his attempt to bring MCFARLAND to the gallows—for that is the underlying tendency of his intervention in the prosecution. He did not employ counsel for the purpose of effecting the release of MCFARLAND. If the prosecution succeeds, the prisoner will be found guilty—and the penalty of death would be the ordinary fate of a prisoner placed in that position. It was, therefore, actually to bring about the hanging of a fellow creature that Mr. GREELEY worked when he aided the prosecution. A man who was opposed to capital punishment, and wished to act up to his principles, would have stood aloof from such a prosecution altogether. Mr. GREELEY was especially bound to follow this course since, as we all remember, he could not bear to see even JEFFERSON DAVIS in prison, and was moved by the tenderness of his heart to set the captive free—and yet JEFFERSON DAVIS is responsible for more blood which ought to be precious to Mr. GREELEY than is DANIEL MCFARLAND.

The assertion that the counsel was engaged to vindicate the memory of Mr. RICHARDSON will not have much weight with the public. "The other story," writes Mr. GREELEY, referring to the McFarland side in the affair, "has possession of the public ear." That is not the fact. The Tribune has from the first defended Mr. RICHARDSON with great persistency, and resented any unfavorable allusion to any of Mr. RICHARDSON'S friends with extraordinary virulence. The Springfield Republican and several other papers have likewise come forward as the champions of Mr. RICHARDSON, and every feature of his conduct has been presented in the most favorable light, from the day of the assassination to the present time. The eulogiums passed upon Mr. RICHARDSON in the Tribune soon after the shooting occurred, were of the most glowing kind. It, moreover, attempted to anticipate the result of the trial in the following announcement: "If this murderer had any provocation for his deed, we insist that it be known. * * In this coming trial it is not alone the State of New-York against DANIEL MCFARLAND. It is civilization against barbarism. It is the civil code against the code of the assassin." This was an appeal to passions and prejudices which no one can pronounce perfectly fair, under all the circumstances, and it is only an example of a great deal more which appeared in the Tribune about the same time. How, then, can Mr. GREELEY say that MCFARLAND'S version of the story has possession of the public ear? The friends of the Tribune correspond largely with country papers, as any one may see who has recently looked over them. The means of publicity at their disposal have been freely—we may fairly say, unscrupulously—used, and perhaps there is absolutely nothing to be said in favor of Mr. RICHARDSON which has not been already said hundreds of times.

It is absurd to complain, as the Tribune did the other day, that the present trial has "been made the foundation of a systematic, concerted attack" upon it. It has invited attack by putting itself so prominently in the foreground. It caused the public to understand that it wished the prosecution to succeed. It called loudly for a "relentless trial," and declared, as the above extract shows, that the very safety of society depended upon the result. Having done so much to identify itself with the prosecution, how can it now regard it as an injury that the public has accepted the position? Mr. HORACE GREELEY himself admits that he takes the deepest private interest in the prosecution. But could he not have done that without openly attempting to bring about the conviction of a prisoner who is liable to be executed if convicted?

The joint resolution introduced in Congress yesterday by Mr. SCHENCK, to make the 30th of May a national holiday, as a memorial of our dead soldiers, and of the national victory over the rebellion, will revive the discussion which was had a year or two ago as to the policy of thus perpetuating the memories of the war. The resolution passed the House without a division, and we have no doubt it will pass the Senate also. It is claimed by some that it is unwise to establish a national holiday which will be a continual reminder to the South of its discomfiture and utter humiliation, and especially in view of the fact that its general observance will never be secured. To our mind, the logic is not sound. The war has gone into history, and its grand fruits will grow in popular appreciation through years, until it will come to be regarded by the people very much as the war of our independence has hitherto been. We think it is eminently proper and desirable permanently to mark so great an epoch in the nation's calendar by an anniversary which shall celebrate the regeneration of the nation, just as the Fourth of July does its birth.

The public will cordially sympathize with the action taken by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, in relation to the recent accident at Richmond. There can be no doubt that great distress must be occasioned by the sudden loss of so many heads of families, and it ought not to be difficult to raise any amount of money toward the relief of those who are left destitute. We trust that the second and third resolutions of the Chamber of Commerce will produce substantial results, and that something better than expressions of sympathy will very shortly be transmitted to Richmond.

Quite a panic exists in Richmond with regard to the old Capitol building, in which the recent catastrophe occurred. It is asserted that the walls are unsafe, and that altogether it is a tumble-down affair. This is denied by the Richmond Dispatch, which says it is a much stronger building than would be likely to be constructed in its place. It was finished in 1792, and it is well known that in those days there was not so much cheating as now—permanence and strength being more sought than ornament. The model of the building is that of the Maison Carrée of Nismes, France, and was selected by Mr. JEFFERSON.

The recent fashion of archæological research which is carrying the ideas of the literary world back to the Middle Ages, and a good deal beyond them, is beginning to tell upon the prejudices of the English literati, and Cambridge University leads the way in returning to the old style of pronouncing Latin and Greek, and saying Cæsar for Qaysar and Miltiadeys and Perseans for Miltiadees and Persians. Of course our colleges and schools will make a note of the innovation, and, after Oxford shall have given way, adopt it, since it is not only according to the practice of the ancients themselves, but is the mode of all the rest of the world except the English. This last is the strongest part of the argument, and no doubt our school-men will duly fall into the proper habit; but for the generality of people it will be a very trying thing to give up Seesar and pronounce the word Saysar.

A new political movement is reported to be organizing in Ohio. The Cleveland Plaindealer says that a great number of War Democrats who went into the Union party during the war, are now anxious to get back again, and are making overtures for that purpose. It is asserted that a correspondence has been entered into between leading politicians of the State with the view of effecting an alliance. We are inclined to suspect that the so-called "movement" is a device of the Democrats, and that so far as they are concerned "the wish is father to the thought." A man who was conscientious enough to be driven out of the party by patriotism and a feeling of outraged loyalty, would hardly be inclined to go back so long as the party remains essentially unchanged. The mere fact that some of the leading issues of the rebellion are practically settled, does not remove the political antagonisms which have so long existed, and which are as strong now as ever. We have no apprehensions that anything serious will come of the reported "new political movement."

The World is undoubtedly right in saying that the failure of the Pall Mall Gazette as a morning paper is not encouraging to the projectors of new journals. It is very doubtful whether such an experiment as that made by the Pall Mall Gazette could be made at much less a cost than sixty thousand pounds. The paper was got up at great expense, and its failure will necessarily be a great blow to the proprietors. The first great mistake made by the Pall Mall was the reduction of its price from two pence to one penny. It gave a better article for a penny than people wanted. Then it started as a morning as well as an evening paper, and thus entered into competition with journals which already held possession of the field. The World truly says, "it was an attempt to publish a costly paper of limited interest at a price at which only a cheap paper of general interest could be made successful." We may depend upon it that no more "high class" papers at a low price will be published in a hurry in England.

The advocates of a high tariff, in Congress, are reported to be getting discouraged, but declare that they will continue to fight it out on that line. We trust that better counsels will prevail, and that the extreme protective theory will be abandoned, and a moderate bill adopted as a compromise. The public is weary of the protracted struggle by the manufacturing interests for undue advantage in the way of monopoly. The great majority of people do not share in the interest which seems to prevail in Congress. They want the tariff question decided upon national grounds, and at once. They are willing to submit to any necessary burden of taxation, but expedition is of great importance. The business of the country is almost at a standstill, and enterprise languishes in the presence of uncertainty. Already one of the national sequences of inaction of capital is seen in a disposition toward illegitimate speculations, and an appreciation of gold and stocks which is unhealthy, and will surely be disastrous if not checked. The truest and best way to check it is to give the general business of the country a reliable basis of future action. Only Congress can do this, and it seems to us to be worse than folly to waste so much precious time.

A paragraph is "going the rounds," to the effect that the London Times has recently lost the services of Dr. DESENT, and will shortly lose those of "Dr." MOWBRAY MORRIS—for which read "Mr." MOWBRAY MORRIS. We do not know the authority for this paragraph, or from what quarter it came—but if true, it indicates great changes in the internal affairs of our contemporary. The loss of Mr. MOWBRAY MORRIS would be very nearly, if not quite, the most severe which could possibly befall it. He has rendered inestimable services to the paper; and, indeed, a man of greater sagacity, penetration, and strength of character, or one of sounder judgment, has perhaps never been actively connected with journalism. It must be understood that he was not in any way responsible for the course of the Times in relation to American affairs during the war, although he had something to do with it after March, 1865. He possesses all the qualities which are indispensable to those who are connected with the management of newspapers,—he is a man of great cultivation and breadth of thought, an amazingly keen and accurate judge of character; cool, reticent, indefatigable and self-reliant. He is (or was) specially responsible for all the business details in the general management of the Times, and for the appointment of foreign correspondents. There is no proprietor of a newspaper who would not be proud to have such a man interested in his property, and even the London Times, which need never be long at a loss for assistance, can ill afford to lose so experienced and powerful an ally.

The Evening Post makes the strangest statement of all with regard to Baboo KESHUB CHUNDER SEN, the object of whose mission to England we explained on Sunday. It says that his true aim is to "convert" the people of England to heathenism, and that he has been lecturing to crowded congregations on the "leading points of the Brahminical religion." This shows a great knowledge and appreciation of the labors of RAMMOHUN ROY and his successor, both of whom were at the head of a sect which is splitting heathenism like a wedge. KESHUB CHUNDER SEN will marvel much at the thick darkness in which the Evening Post is plunged—on this particular subject.

A Burglar Trying to Smuggle Goods Through the Custom-House—How the Affair was Hushed up by the Officials.

Some three weeks ago the steam-ship Main arrived from London, having on board a most notorious thief and burglar, who was well known to the Police in London, but who managed to elude them, and made his flight to this country. In his possession, among other things, he had with him $1,500 worth of diamonds which he was about to introduce in this country, if possible, without paying duty. Officer THOMAS LEE, however, discovered the valuable treasures, and finding that he intended to evade paying the duty upon them took possession of them. After some discussion it was agreed by other superior officials, to let the matter be settled amicably, that is, that the thief should be allowed to go unmolested, and they should take care of the diamonds. The affair, however, leaked out, and came to the ears of Col. H. C. WHITLEY, of the Secret Service Division, and he at once put one of his best officers on the track of the diamond merchant.

Yesterday that officer secured his "prize" at Newark, and took him to Jersey City, where he was held to bail in the sum of $50,000. On his being searched a number of French and Russian bonds were also found upon him, amounting to about $80,000, which are said to have been stolen from parties in France.

MOSQUITO AT NIBLO'S.

ALEXANDER DUMAS, père, has much to answer for, and his last work is not his choicest. That the author of Monte Cristo and the Three Guardsmen should also be the author of "Mosquito," is a melancholy illustration of literary degeneracy. Not that the latter production is altogether bad. It is simply an old-fashioned melodrama "replete with startling effects," most of which are readily anticipated, with tawdry and common-place language which becomes at times extremely tiresome, and with scenic effects that, as usual at Niblo's, are undeniably first-rate of their kind. Miss LYDIA THOMPSON plays several parts, or rather assumes several disguises, with her usual spirit and dexterity, and, as usual, carries the sympathy and approbation of her audience with remarkable ease in whatever she undertakes. At the outset she is a young girl, the supposed daughter of a planter. The planter is murdered for the sake of his money and the girl, to escape, assumes the disguise of her servant lad Mosquito. The chief assassins fly in safety to Paris and there enjoy their booty, until they are overtaken in the sequel by the proper and customary retribution. Virtue of course comes out triumphant, vice is duly confounded, and all ends as it should. Without the acting and the scenery "Mosquito" would be bald enough; but these two elements happen for the most part to be remarkably fine, and raise to something like a triumph what would otherwise hardly rate as a success of esteem. Miss PAULINE MARKHAM is as icy as the description of her part requires, and looks, of course, as handsome as could be wished. Mr. NEIL WARNER, who made his first appearance here on this occasion, and who also is a very good melodramatic actor, plays Valderrama quite acceptably; and Mr. HARRY JACKSON, barring his disposition to drone too much at times, makes an effective Pierre Le Rouge. Mr. W. B. CAHILL deserves similar praise for his impersonation of Patte de Velours. The minor characters are carefully and efficiently sustained. "Mosquito" was received last night with continuous and hearty applause, and it will, we doubt not, be attractive for some time. The piece is well adapted to gratify a general audience. There is plenty of music, and there are plenty of startling tableaus, and these are diversified by a fair sprinkling of song, dance and terrific combat. The scenes and business are arranged with much taste, and the costumes, especially in the first act, are very handsome, and, which is not so common, very correct. We do not, as we have intimated, think that "Mosquito" will add much to M. ALEXANDER DUMAS' literary reputation; it is nevertheless a stirring and showy drama, and has qualities that will endow it with considerable vitality whenever it is as well acted and as well mounted as it now is at Niblo's.

ANNOUNCEMENTS OF THE DAY.

The farewell concert of Miss ALIDE TOPP occurs to-night at the Union League Club Theater, and not at Steinway Hall.....Mr. FECHTER acts Claude Melnotte at the French Theater to-night for the last time.

MR. FECHTER FOR BOSTON.

We hear from Boston that an important change will take place in the management of Selwyn's Theater next season. Mr. J. H. SELWYN will retire and his place will be supplied by no less a person than Mr. CHARLES FECHTER, who will give the public ample opportunities of witnessing his histrionic as well as his managerial skill. Miss CARLOTTA LE CLERCQ has been engaged for the season as a member of the stock company, and Miss MORANT, Mrs. CHANFRAU, and Mr. J. W. WALLACK will leave our theaters to add to its strength. No piece of theatrical intelligence has excited so much surprise and pleasure in Boston for many years as this, and few announcements have been suggestive of more important results.

Ex-Solicitor Binckley's Suit Against Ex-Commissioner Rollins.

From the Baltimore Sun, May 2.

It will be remembered that a suit was instituted some time since in the Baltimore City Court by JOHN M. BINCKLEY, former United States Solicitor of Internal Revenue, against Ex-Commissioner E. A. ROLLINS, to recover damages, laid at $50,000, for causing the plaintiff's removal from office. Upon petition of the defendant, the case was removed to the United States Circuit Court, and the counsel for the plaintiff, on the 6th of April, filed a petition praying that the writ of certiorari be quashed, and the transcript of the case be removed back to the City Court, upon the ground that the United States Court had no jurisdiction in the case. This petition was argued on Saturday before Judge GILES by Mr. R. J. BRENT, counsel for the plaintiff. Mr. BRENT contended that the case did not come under the act of 1866, which, he said, was only intended for the protection of officers who were required to perform certain duties under the law in the discharge of those particular duties. This, he said, was a personal wrong to the plaintiff, not committed in the discharge of any official duty, but out of private malice and resentment. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, he contended, could no more avail himself of his privilege as an officer of the Government to slander and libel one of his employes than he could commit an assault and battery upon any one of them. Mr. BRENT continued at length to argue that the United States Court had no jurisdiction in the case, and that it was one that properly belonged to the civil Courts. He further contended that ROLLINS had no authority over BINCKLEY, that the President had no authority over him, but that he was appointed by and amenable only to the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. BRENT cited numerous authorities to show the distinction between official acts authorized by law and acts sua sponte.

Upon the conclusion of Mr. BRENT'S argument, Judge GILES said it was not for the Court to decide on the facts and merits of the case. He agreed with the argument of the counsel that if malice was proved, the defendant could not shield himself behind his official character. But the Court is of the opinion that the defendant, being an officer charged with the collection of the United States internal revenue, and coming within the purview of the act of 1864, he has a right to have his liability and responsibility decided in the United States Court. The case is not tried on this motion. All the Court has to be satisfied of is that the defendant did the act complained of under the color of official authority, and in the execution of the duties of his office. The Commissioner is charged by the law with the duty of collecting the internal revenue, and he is derelict of his duty if he permits an incompetent person or a perjurer or a useless person to remain in his Department. Of course, whatever representations he makes are at his own peril, and if malicious, he will be held responsible. The President is charged by the Constitution with the execution of the laws. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has a right to make representations of Progress with the Tariff in the House—The Debt Statement—Reduction of Nearly Twelve Millions—Pension to Mrs. Lincoln—The Funding Bill—Business in the Senate—The Indian Campaign—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Gen. SCHENCK came into the House this morning with a resolute determination to have progress this week on the Tariff bill. The first thing he did was to move that the rules be so modified on the pending special order that debate could be closed by the Committee without rising, thus saving a great deal of time. This was carried by more than the requisite two-thirds vote. He then moved that for the next three days the House meet at 11 o'clock, which was also carried. He then moved for a night session to-night, which the House refused, preferring to meet an hour earlier and sit an hour later. The consideration of the tariff today covered about one page. The two paragraphs on insulated and telegraphic wires or cables for submarine purposes, and hair-pins, were passed without amendment. The next paragraph, including all other kinds of iron, was agreed to at one cent per pound, which is an increase over the present rate of three-tenths of one cent per pound. To this paragraph Mr. HOAR moved and carried the following amendment:

"On machine-card clothing and hand-cards, whether of iron, steel or brass wire, stuck in leather, cloth, rubber or paper, or other manufacture, fifty per cent. ad valorem."

The paragraph on chains was stricken out, leaving the duty as now. On wrought-iron washers, nuts, bolts, rivets, &c., the duty was fixed at two and a half cents per per pound, instead of three, as proposed by the bill; and instead of two, as now, an increase of half a cent per pound. Wrought-iron hinges were increased twenty-five per cent. ad valorem. Wrought-iron welled pipes, tubs and flues, of all descriptions, remain as in the bill at three cents, which is about the same as now. Tinned iron and horse and mule shoes, both of which were increased, were stricken out. Iron and metal screws were fixed at thirty-five per cent. ad valorem, as now, instead of forty per cent. as proposed by the bill. Gen. SCHENCK then indicated a purpose to strike out all the remaining paragraphs down to steel, and moved to close debate for that purpose, pending which the Committee rose. Steel will be reached to-morrow, and there will be a strong contest on it. At least two days more will be consumed on steel and the other metals.

THE DEBT STATEMENT.

The debt statement of today, showing the unprecedented reduction of nearly $12,000,000, was a surprise to everybody. The most that had been anticipated was nine millions, even up to this morning, but as the reports of the national banks were subsequently added, the receipts were unexpectedly swelled some two millions or more. At the close of this month the Treasury will have to its credit one hundred and seventy millions of bonds.

PENSION TO MRS. LINCOLN.

The House today promptly passed the bill granting a pension to Mrs. LINCOLN of $3,000 per year, by a vote of 86 to 63, first refusing to refer the matter to the Pension Committee. Mr. JUDD, of Illinois, introduced and pushed through the resolution, and the Senate will undoubtedly agree to it.

THE FUNDING BILL.

The Ways and Means Committee had a long session on the Funding bill this morning, and it is understood that the discussion was chiefly confined to the bank section, but members are very reticent in regard to the progress of the bill, and little is known of its condition. It is believed that the bill will be reported this week.

BILLS PASSED IN THE SENATE.

The Senate took up the calendar this morning, and under the Anthony rule, went over nearly five pages. About one hundred and twenty bills have been passed for the last ten days, leaving about two hundred and thirty-five measures pending before the body. Among the bills passed today was the one repealing certain legislation of the Territory of Wyoming which affected the interests of the Union Pacific Railroad. Among those passed over was an act for the relief of JONES, FOWLER, KIRTLAND & CO., of New-York, who have a claim for $60,000 for losses alleged to be sustained by them by the suspension of work on the dome of the National Capitol from May, 1861, to May, 1862. A bill to pay the claims of loyal persons in the South $225,000 for services in taking the last census was also passed over. The bill for the reduction of the army will be read to-morrow, when Senator WILSON will press it, so as to get it out of the way.

THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN.

Gen. SHERIDAN, who has returned to Chicago, telegraphs Gen. SHERMAN that all the available troops are on their way to the front, and that no actual hostilities have yet occurred. Gen. SHERMAN said today that he still entertains some hope that hostilities might be avoided.

THE LLOYD ASPINWALL.

The owners of the steamer Lloyd Aspinwall having ordered her Captain to receive the vessel, Secretary FISH has directed Consul-General BIDDLE to deliver her up, and the latter announces by telegraph today that he had complied with the order. This morning Secretary ROBESON telegraphed to Admiral POOR, at Havana, that when the vessel was delivered to the Captain, she be placed under the guns of the iron-clad Saugus, where she could be protected against any possible attempts of the turbulent spirits in Havana to again jeopardize her liberty. The vessel cannot leave port without repairs, as she has been considerably damaged by lying in the sun for three months, her crew not even being permitted to wet her planking while the Spanish guard was on board.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Gen. BANKS attempted today to get the House committed to an expression on the Alabama claims, to the effect that their immediate settlement should be demanded, but many members regarded it as reflecting on the Administration, and the resolution was not entertained.

THE GEORGIA BRIBERY CASE.

The Georgia bribery investigation case is not concluded, as has been supposed. Gov. BULLOCK is expected here on Wednesday of this week to give further testimony in the matter.

GIN DISTILLERIES.

Deputy-Commissioner GIVEN has returned from his inspection tour of the gin distilleries of Massachusetts and Connecticut. He has examined the mode of manufacturing gin, and prescribed rules for determining the capacity of those establishments. It appears that there are six gin distilleries in the United States, four of which are in Connecticut, and two in Massachusetts.

COMMITTEES.

The Military and Indian Committees of the Senate met this morning, but no business of public importance was transacted. An individual Cherokee claim was considered in the latter body, and one or two minor bills, which were subsequently reported in the former. The House Committee on Commerce hold a special meeting to-morrow to consider the River and Harbor Appropriation bill.

PERSONAL.

It was announced some time since that Hon. C. C. HARRIS, late Minister from the Sandwich Islands to the United States, had died at Honolulu. A letter received from him today announces the death of Mrs. HARRIS at that place. She was a native of Boston, and quite well known in Washington.

THE CENSUS.

The areas of the several judicial districts reported by the Marshals, for the purpose of determining mileage at the approaching census, show a considerable difference thus far in favor of the Government from those reported for the eighth census in 1860. Of thirteen districts, of which the area has been returned, eleven claim a smaller area than in 1860. The only cases where an excess over 1860 is reported are those of Rhode Island, which reports twenty-six square miles in excess, due to the setting off of two towns from Massachusetts area not reported to that State; and the Southern district of Illinois, which reports 1,418 more than in 1860, all but sixty-nine being due, however, to the transfer of two entire counties from the northern district, area not reported; so that the real excess in these two districts is only ninety-five square miles, while the remaining eleven States report an aggregate area less than allowed for in 1860 by 20,043 square miles.

THE MERCHANT MARINE.

The monthly report, No. 7, of the Bureau of Statistics, now in press, contains, besides other valuable and interesting matter, a statement showing the number of vessels and amount of tonnage belonging to each of the several States on the 30th of June, 1869. The total number of vessels was 26,393, with a tonnage of 3,744,319, of which 7,175 vessels, representing a tonnage of 1,319,956, belonged to New-York; to Massachusetts, 2,870, with 471,642 tons; to Maine, 2,944 vessels, with 443,777 tons; to Pennsylvania, 2,052 vessels, with 265,635 tons; to Ohio, 1,128 vessels, with 146,036 tons; to Illinois, 827 vessels, with 124,694 tons; and to Michigan, 939 vessels, with 108,989 tons. The number of vessels temporarily registered was 1,033, with a tonnage of 401,046; making a grand total of 27,425 vessels and 4,145,365 tons.

THE PENITENT REBELS.

It has been ascertained that not less than 300,000 amnesty oaths were taken under the proclamations, respectively, of Presidents LINCOLN and JOHNSON. They are on record in the State Department.

TELEGRAPH TO JAPAN AND ELSEWHERE.

The bill lately presented in the House of Representatives for an ocean cable between New-York and Holland under a concession granted by the King of Holland, Oct. 1869, provides that it shall be continued from New York by wires over the continent of America, and by cable from the Pacific coast to China and Japan: $10,000,000 seven per cent. bonds to be issued for wires and cables from Europe to the Pacific coast; $10,000,000 for cables from the Pacific coast to Asia; the bonds secured on the wires, cables, and property of the Company. The Government to use the wires and cables of the Company one hour each day without charge, and two additional hours, if needed, at half the tariff rates. The bill to incorporate the Pacific Submarine Telegraph Company and to facilitate telegraph communication between America and Asia meets with much favor. No opposition has yet been expressed against it. Week after next Mr. CYRUS W. FIELD will return to Washington to give information on the subject before several of the committees.

FORTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.

Petitions were presented for the removal of political disabilities and against the revival of the income tax.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. WILSON, from the Military Committee, reported adversely upon the following subjects, the further consideration of which was, upon his motion, indefinitely postponed:

Petitions of retired army officers praying to be allowed full salaries; memorial of the Universal Peace Society against any increase in the number of cadets at the Military Academy; joint resolutions for the better protection of the frontier of Texas; also, petitions for the abolition of the Military Academy.

He also reported favorably the House joint resolution for the pay of one year's salary for the benefit of the family of the late Gen. JOHN A. RAWLINS. Placed on the calendar.

The Committees on Claims and on Pensions reported adversely to numerous applications for relief.

Mr. ROSS, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, reported favorably the joint resolution directing the Secretary of the Interior to issue a patent to the Indiana yearly meeting of the Society of Friends for certain lands in the Shawnee Reservation. Passed.

RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. MORRILL, of Vermont, offered a resolution directing the Committee on Patents to inquire into the expediency of amending the Patent laws, so that the fees use of every patent hereafter issued shall be retained for the use of the United States in all the departments.

Mr. HOWE offered a resolution to pay O. B. HART, claiming a seat in the Senate from Florida, mileage and the usual compensation of a Senator from the presentation of his credentials until the decision of the case.

Mr. ROBERTSON objected and the resolution was referred.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Bills were introduced and referred as follows:

By Mr. HOWE—Extending the time for construcing a railroad from the St. Croix River or Lake to the west end of Lake Superior.

By Mr. ROSS—To reimburse the State of Kansas for expenditures in equipping and provisioning militia forces to aid in suppressing the rebellion.

By Mr. COLE—Granting lands and right of way to the Sacramento Irrigation Company.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a Bill amending the law establishing the Court of Claims. He said the Act creating the Court of Claims, as amended, required claimants to prove their loyalty in all cases, whether arising before, during or since the rebellion. His bill would enable parties having claims against the United States, but not in any way connected with the rebellion, to go into Court without such proof. The bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT.

Mr. POOL introduced a bill to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and to secure and protect the rights, privileges and immunities of American citizens in a State, and to furnish the means of their vindication.

It provides that it shall be unlawful for persons to combine or conspire together to violate, hinder or impede any of the rights meant to be secured by the Fourteenth Amendment, or either directly or indirectly to coerce, intimidate, treat with violence, refuse to employ, discharge from employment or otherwise injure or oppress any citizen of the United States with intent to deter or restrain him from the exercises of such rights, or because of his having exercised the same. Such offenses shall be punishable by the United States Circuit Courts by a fine not exceeding $10,000, and imprisonment not exceeding ten years. Finally, the President is empowered to employ the land and naval forces of the United States to enforce the foregoing provisions, and to cause to be disbanded and dispersed all combinations of persons conspiring to violate any of them.

Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

BILLS DISPOSED OF.

The Calendar, the regular order of business until finished, was then proceeded with, and business was disposed of as follows:

The bill to repeal certain acts of Territorial legislation in Wyoming was amended and passed.

The bill to make up deficiencies in land-grants to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Central Pacific Railroad, in California, to Portland, Oregon, was passed.

The bill to authorize the settlement of the accounts of Hinton, Rowan & Helper, was passed.

The bill granting lands and right of way in Missouri and Arkansas to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line along or near the thirty-sixth parallel of north latitude, from the Mississippi to the Arkansas Rivers, was passed.

The bill to regulate credits to prisoners for good behavior; extending to them the State system of credits, was passed.

The bill to increase the number of Judges of Supreme and Circuit Courts of the United States, and to establish the boundaries of judicial circuits, was postponed indefinitely.

Bills were also passed incorporating the Association for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in the District of Columbia.

Also the House bill extending the time for the completion of the military road from Fort Wilkins, Copper Harbor, Mich., to Fort Howard, Green Bay, Wis., and the bill relative to certain unsold lands in the counties of Porter and Lake, Indiana.

THE ONEIDA RELIEF BILL.

The bill for the relief of widows and orphans of officers, seamen and marines of the United States vessel of war Oneida, giving them twelve months' pay, was amended on motion of Mr. CRAGIN to authorize commissions and the corresponding increase of pay to officers who, by their absence, were not examined with their classes, but had since been confirmed by the Senate, in several cases the confirmation being after their death. Mr. CRAGIN remarked that similar bills had been passed in the cases of the Cumberland and the Congress. The bill was passed.

TEXAS.

Mr. FLANAGAN called up the House bill extending for thirty days the time within which persons elected to office in Texas may take the oath of office prescribed in the act admitting Texas to representation. The bill was passed, but was subsequently taken up and amended in some particulars and passed.

CLAIMS OF SOUTHERN LOYALISTS.

The bill to pay loyal citizens in the late rebel States for taking the census in 1860 coming up, Mr. SUMNER insisted upon an amendment requiring each claimant to take the iron-clad oath. After discussion, the bill was laid aside.

PERUVIAN CLAIMS.

The bill authorizing the payment of the amount awarded to ESTEBAN G. MONTONO, a citizen of Peru, under the claims of the Convention between the United States and Peru, of December 4, 1868, coming up, Mr. SUMNER advocated the payment of the claim, as a means of securing payment of the American claims against the Peruvian Government.

Mr. EDMUNDS said he believed the claim to be an unadulterated fraud, that it would not bear investigation and that the claimant had already been paid four times over.

Discussion arising, the bill went over under the rule.

At 4:50 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Under the operation of the previous question the bill was passed—yeas 75, nays 51.

CONTESTED ELECTION EXPENSES.

Mr. MORRILL, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution for the payment to J. H. SYPHER of one year's compensation as a Representative, in full of all expenses in prosecuting his right to a seat in the House. The House refused to second the previous question, 55 to 67, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Elections.

Mr. MOORE, of New-Jersey, offered a similar resolution to pay $4,000 to FRANK MOREY for expenses in contesting the election in the Fifth Congressional District of Louisiana. Same reference.

THE PARDON OF FENIANS.

Mr. BIRD offered a resolution requesting the President to intercede with the British or Canadian authorities for the pardon of JOHN GALLAGHER, of New-Jersey, captured with the Fenians and sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. Adopted.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Mr. CALKIN offered a resolution declaring it to be the sentiment of the American people that immediate reparation should be made by the Government of Great Britain for the destruction of vessels belonging to citizens of the United States by the piratical steamer Alabama and other steamers of like character, and requesting the President to press the Alabama claims to an immediate settlement, so that citizens may be promptly remunerated for their losses and the national honor maintained.

The House refused to second the previous question by a vote of 60 to 75, and on motion of Mr. BANKS, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

BOUNTIES.

Mr. NIBLACK introduced a joint resolution for the payment of bounty to all soldiers who were mustered into service under the President's proclamation of the 3d of May, 1861. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

DECORATION DAY.

Mr. SCHENCK introduced a joint resolution declaring that the 30th of May being the day appointed and accustomed to be observed for the decoration of the graves of the soldiers who died in war in defense of the Union, against rebellion, a public holiday be forever observed as such by the people of the United States. Passed without a division.

THE TARIFF.

Mr. SCHENCK offered a resolution giving the Committee of the Whole authority to stop debate on any portion of the Tariff Bill. Adopted, 113 to 13.

Mr. SCHENCK moved that on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week the House meet at 11 o'clock. Agreed to.

The House then, at 1½ went into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff bill, Mr. WHEELER in the Chair.

Telegraph Cables and Wire.

The pending paragraph was that as to the telegraph cables. It was amended so as to read: On all insulated telegraphic or or electric cables for sub-marine purposes, and all telegraph wire, forty per cent. ad valorem.

Hair-pins.

The next paragraph was taxing hair-pins made from wire fifty per cent. ad valorem.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, moved to reduce the duty to the present rate, thirty-five per cent. Rejected.

Machine-cards, &c.

Mr. HOAR moved to insert the following:

On machine-card clothing and hand-cards, whether of iron, steel or brass wire, stuck in leather, cloth, rubber, or paper, or however manufactured, fifty per per cent. ad valorem.

After explanation and discussion the question was taken by tellers, but a quorum not voting, the Chairman caused the roll to be called, and reported the names of the absentees to the House. One hundred and fifty-eight members answered to their names. The count was again taken, and the amendment was agreed to by 64 to 57.

Iron—General Classes.

The succeeding paragraph was, on motion of Mr. SCHENCK, amended so as to read: "On iron of any size or description, not otherwise provided for, one cent per pound, &c."

Chains.

The next paragraph referring to chains was, on motion of Mr. SCHENCK, struck out.

Wrought-iron Washers, Rivets and Hinges.

The next paragraph was, on motion of Mr. SCHENCK, amended so as to read:

On wrought-iron washers, nuts, bolts or rivets, wholly or partially finished, of all descriptions, punched or unpunched, two and one-half cents per pound.

Mr. SCHENCK moved to insert an additional paragraph as follows:

On wrought-iron hinges weighing not more than two pounds to the dozen pair, twenty-five per cent. ad valorem in addition to the present duty.

After opposition by Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, the amendment was agreed to by 69 to 46.

Wrought-iron Pipes, Tubes, &c.

The next paragraph was that imposing a duty of three cents per pound on wrought-iron welded pipes, tubes and flues of all descriptions.

Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, moved to reduce the duty to two and a half cents per pound, and argued that that duty, over $67 a ton, was certainly sufficient protection for the four establishments engaged in this manufacture. In reply to a question by Mr. ELDRIDGE, he said that it would be an ad valorem duty of from ninety-seven to one hundred and fifteen per cent., an enormous duty to be imposed on water-pipes and gas-pipes. The amendment was supported by Messrs. JUDD and FARNSWORTH, and was opposed by Messrs. ROCKWELL, KELLEY and MAYNARD, and was rejected by 54 to 81.

Galvanized Plates.

The next paragraph was that imposing a duty of two and a half cents per pound on tinned iron, known as tin plates, and on iron and tin plates galvanized, &c. Mr. SCHENCK moved to amend the paragraph by making it read: "On iron or tin plates galvanized, or on iron coated with zinc or any other metal, two and a half cents per pound." Mr. ALLISON moved to strike out the paragraph. Mr. ALLISON'S motion prevailed, and the paragraph was struck out.

Horse-shoes.

The next paragraph was that taxing horse and mule shoes two cents per pound. Mr. COX moved to strike out the paragraph, saying that he represented the body of the truck-men and carters of New-York City, who were interested in having the duty reduced. An amendment was discussed by Messrs. COX, MCCORMICK, BURCHARD and ELDRIDGE in favor and by Messrs. MAYNARD, CONGER and others against it. Finally the paragraph was struck out.

Iron Screws.

The next paragraph was that imposing a duty on all screws of iron not otherwise provided for, and on screws of any other metal than iron of forty per cent. ad valorem. Mr. BROOKS, of New-York, moved to reduce it to twenty per cent. Rejected—45 to 70. Mr. ROGERS moved to make it thirty per cent. Rejected. Mr. ALLISON moved to make it thirty-five per cent. Agreed to—65 to 53. Mr. GARFIELD moved to strike out the words "not otherwise provided for," so as to make all iron screws on the same basis. Rejected—52 to 64. On motion of Mr. SCHENCK, the paragraph was struck out, leaving the duty on iron screws as under the present law.

Iron Pots.

Mr. SCHENCK moved to strike out the next paragraph as to vessels of cast-iron, and irons, &c. Mr. GRISWOLD argued that striking out the paragraph would not give the relief required, as the present duty was prohibitory. Without disposing of the motion the Committee rose, having progressed as far as page eighteen of the bill, which contains fifty pages.

ADJOURNMENT.

The House then at 5½ adjourned until to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

Fresh Demonstrations of the Volunteers—A Duel Frustrated—War News—The Cinco Villas and St. Jago de Cuba—Miscellaneous Gossip.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Tuesday, April 26, 1870.

To a casual observer this city appears tranquil, and only those well acquainted with the country and its people detect the under-current of feeling and even excitement which prevails, and which is displayed at any moment when called forth by some real or reported information, affecting not so much the Spanish cause, as the feelings of the Spaniards. An example is now before me, and the generality of the population is hardly aware that the ultra Spaniards and volunteers resolved this week to have their own way once more, and if necessary to defy the General Government. During DULCE'S administration a certain Mr. DIAZ acted as his Secretary. If he had been the most honest man and true ultra Spaniard, (both qualities being denied to him,) the fact of his close connection with DULCE would in itself have been sufficient to make him disliked here. By the last steamer DIAZ, who is now in Spain, wrote to his friends that he would soon be in Havana with an important appointment. Other letters stated that BECENA had appointed him Governor of Havana in place of LOPEZ ROBERTS. This information spread immediately, and it was resolved that if Mr. DIAZ was appointed and came here, he would be requested either to remain on board until the sailing of the first steamer returning to Spain, or else the existing Government would place him in Fort Cabañas until that day, but in no event would he be allowed to land. A very prominent volunteer officer speaking with your correspondent, remarked: "DIAZ must not land; we don't want him, as he is altogether too clever, and we don't need such very clever people as Governors; if he should unfortunately land, I have no doubt but that the populace would mob him." And so the matter stands. Although it has been reported that DIAZ would come here as inspector of railroads and not as Governor, it is extremely doubtful whether that would make any difference. The feeling is too strong against him, and his life would be jeopardized, irrespective of the fact that he is a Spaniard and not a Cuban. The Voz de Cuba, referring to the decree ordering the estates of Prof. JOSE QUINTIN SUARATE and RAMON DE ARMAS to be embargoed, (both gentlemen being members of the Cuban Junta in Sisal,) says of the former that he received a salary from the Government for a long time; that, as editor of the Matanzas Aurora, he was the great defender of Gen. LERSUNDI, and that this is another example of how the youth of this island were taught to look on Spain as a tyrannical power and not as a great and generous nation. This is altogether a matter of opinion, and if Spain is grand and generous to its own people at home, she was careful not to exhibit these qualities in Cuba, and therefore SUARATE had a right to give his side of the question.

DUEL FRUSTRATED.

Since the publication of Capt. OLANO'S letter in the Diario of the 14th inst., reflecting not only on Gen. PUELLO'S military talents, but also on his honor, it was generally understood that PUELLO had challenged Capt. OLANO to fight a duel. Very naturally everybody was on the qui vive; the Spaniards, because their pet Cuban, JOSE OLANO, the Captain of the Captain General's Volunteer Guides, is a great favorite; the colored population, because their idol, Gen. PUELLO, a mulatto of the purest type, was about to chastise an insolent white man; the Cubans, because the effect of a row between two such noted defenders of the Spanish cause could only be of benefit, and destroy to a certain extent the good feeling among the Spaniards and the remainder of the population, because it would afford a little excitement. Those well "posted" on politics and on the state of affairs, doubted from the beginning that any fight would take place, because the leaders of the Spanish party were well aware of the consequences which the duel would produce, whatever the result. Their prognostications were verified. The acting Captain-General and other influential persons interfered, and on Sunday morning a communication appeared in the city journals, signed by Capt. OLANO, making a full and complete retraction of everything he said about Gen. PUELLO'S character and reputation, and assuring the General of his friendship and esteem. The Cubans are chuckling over the matter, and are highly delighted that Capt. OLANO, their countryman, whom they hate most cordially, has been compelled to swallow his own words. At the same time nobody believes that Capt. OLANO really wrote the first article, but only signed it; the general impression is that Mr. FERRES DE CONTO, the editor of the Chronista, wrote it; but this is a mere supposition. It is positive, however, that the Captain-General and his Secretary were aware of, and in fact had seen the article at Puerto Principe, because the Havana censor did not interfere, the last sheet of the manuscript bearing the autograph of Secretary FERNANDE and the order that it should be published. Whoever wrote the document, it has been one of great importance, and has opened the eyes of many persons who until then believed in the infallibility of the Spanish arms and in the truth of official reports.

WAR NEWS.

From the Puerto Principe region no news of importance has reached this city, although a few facts of interest are to be noted. The construction of forts continues, and the defeat of the insurgent Gen. PERALTA, who had entered the jurisdiction of Holguin with 500 men, is reported. A Spanish officer, who had been a prisoner among the insurgents and managed to escape, reports that GOICURIA had left the country. The nephew of ALDAMA, who is serving in the ranks of the Spanish army, was with the party who captured the Prefect VARELA.

THE CINCO VILLAS.

Again the Cinco Villas is becoming the scene of war, the jurisdiction of Cienfuegos, which had been comparatively quiet, being once more the gathering point of small Cuban bands, who make all the roads insecure and prevent the movements of small bodies of troops. It is reported that the troops are unable to make any headway or to prevent the insurgents from roaming about the territory at will. Near Trinidad a number of skirmishes had taken place, Spanish accounts recording the movements and attacks of several columns, the grand result being a number of huts burned and two insurgents killed, one of these two having met his fate, according to the very minute description given, by the column commanded by Capt. MARIAS. Courts-martial to try persons accused of treason are held at various points in the Cinco Villas.

ST. JAGO DE CUBA.

Major BOSE, commander of counter guerrillas, surprised an insurgent camp, the sentinel being found asleep at his post. Eighteen insurgents were killed, and twenty-one captured. Nearly all the prisoners are negroes. VALMASEDA has placed Gen. DETENRE in command of the moving forces, and the Spaniards expect that he will soon clear the district of the bands which now infest it. This same expectation has existed under eleven different leaders, and is now twenty months old. It has a chance of growing yet.

MISCELLANEOUS GOSSIP.

The yield of the present sugar crop is supposed to be from five to twelve per cent. less than last year....The Court-martial held on Saturday discharged Mr. SIRVEN, who was accused of treason. ...All the steamers going to Europe are crowded with passengers. The law compelling persons who intend to go to the United States to give $5,000 bail, prevents many from proceeding in that direction. Another cause of the move is the existence of the new line between this island and Bremen and Hamburg, the latter being the favorite....Very little rain has fallen in proportion to that in former years.

CURRENT NOTES.

The Boston Traveller predicts that GRANT will be re-elected, and that the present year will not run out without seeing California experience a serious shaking by an earthquake.

A Virginia editor declares that one day, recently, he became "so incensed with the misprints of the types, that he could not eat without anger."

That old lady who has never seen a railroad car, was living in Chester County, Penn., last week.

A policeman, in Chicago, must be at least five feet, seven inches in height, and not over forty-five years old.

Returns from all but two counties in the Kentucky Third District give Gen. JOSEPH H. LEWIS, Democrat, about 4,700 majority for Congress, over JAMES H. LOWRY, Republican. Mr. SEYMOUR'S majority in the district in 1868 was 8,222.

A Missouri paper reports that SAM. HILDEBRAND, the outlaw, is about to join the Red River insurgents.

The Nashville (Tenn.) Press & Herald says that Gov. SENTER, distressed beyond measure that his fealty to the best interests of the people of Tennessee should be so widely questioned by the Press and the people of the State, has expressed his intention to send in his resignation to the Legislature early this month.

A Michigan couple who had been married nineteen years were divorced recently, but quickly repented and four hours later called on a clergyman and were made one again.

A St. Louis dealer advertises that his "trade-mark" is that a boy five years old can buy of him as cheap as a man of mature age.

The relapsing fever is spreading in Philadelphia, and the Inquirer says that not only have the slums of the city been visited by it, but it has made an inroad into fashionable residences.

The Chicago Fire Department cost last year $342,662. The estimate for this year is $427,375. The Police Department last year cost $399,073, and the estimate for this year is $644,870.

A Nashville editor is troubled by the names Mississippi and Cincinnati, "one being all s and p, and the other all n and i," and he asks despairingly, why would not Missi and Cinati do as well?

Hon. WALTER BOOTH, of Connecticut, died at his residence in Meriden on Saturday, at the age of seventy-eight years.

The late BARNARD MAGUIRE, of Philadelphia, bequeathed $40,500 to various Catholic institutions in that city.

A Memphis paper reports that JEFF. DAVIS was "conspicuous among the gallants" present at a recent meeting of the Confederate Historical Association. Conspicuous, perhaps, by contrast.

Gen. SHERMAN has prohibited the use of violets and all the various "colored" inks in official correspondence and records throughout the army, except carmine or red ink, as generally used in indorsement, ruling or in record books.

Speaker BLAINE has written a letter stating that he will not be a candidate for United States Senator from Maine. He says that it appears to him quite evident that should he consent to be a candidate and even be elected, it would tend to produce discord among those who have heretofore been friends, and might possibly mar the harmony of the Republican Party in Maine. The withdrawal of Mr. BLAINE, it is said, will secure the re-election of Mr. MORRILL, but as the choice will not be made until January, 1871, it is rather early to make predictions now.

THE ARCADE SWINDLE.

Another Meeting of Broadway Property-Owners—Earnest Remonstrances.

A large meeting of some of the leading citizens of the City was held at Mr. STEWART'S store, yesterday afternoon, to take some action as to the best means for preventing the Arcade Railroad bill from becoming a law. All the gentlemen present own more or less property on Broadway, and the aggregate value of the property represented was estimated at $300,000,000. Among the gentlemen present were Messrs. Stewart, Astor, Tiffany, Sloane, Roosevelt, Solomon, Jaffray, Matthews and about fifty others. No reporters were admitted to the meeting. Judge ROOSEVELT was elected Chairman, and Judge HILTON Secretary. Mr. A. T. STEWART stated the object of the meeting, and hoped for a unity of feeling against the Arcade Railroad bill, and that as many as possible would see the importance of proceeding to Albany to urge the impropriety of the making of this bill a law. He supposed that all had read the bill and understood it. Numerous remonstrances against the bill had been sent to both Houses, but they had proved unavailing, and now personal presence before the Governor was needed to prove the unanimity of those whose interests it so vitally affected.

Mr. JAFFRAY gave his views at some length, and indorsed what Mr. STEWART had said. He urged the importance of their all being in Albany to show by their presence their opposition to the measure, and to give the Governor a moral support in opposition to the efforts of those who had carried the measure through. They had no selfish motives. Their only desire was to act as citizens seeking the best good of their City. He commented on the different points in the bill. If the street was once dug up, trade must cease where the work was being carried on. The experience of business men was that when the channels of trade were once diverted from a locality they never returned. The same result would come to Broadway as to Pearl-street after the great fire. The erection of splendid warehouses could not lure back the trade which had been even temporarily diverted. He wanted a Committee of five appointed to take charge of matters.

Mr. GEORGE GIBBS called attention to the clause restricting the suing out of injunctions to a single Court and before, perhaps, a single Magistrate. That was an outrage to which the attention of the Governor should be particularly called. This bill affected more property than any other bill ever had.

Judge ROOSEVELT said the clause alluded to was one which it had become the fashion of late to tack on to all railroad jobs.

Mr. SOLOMON spoke of the necessity of intercourse between different parts of the City. They had not yet been able to fix on any plan, though they had opposed a Broadway railroad for nineteen years. Their inability to agree on any plan gave the vile publications scattered through the streets the chance to attack them. He added that the Sun is the most villainous of all the papers. [Applause.] He dwelt on the importance of united action. On motion, the Secretary, Judge HILTON, was added to the Committee of five, the remaining members being Messrs. E. S. Jaffray, C. S. Tiffany, C. E. Detmold, E. Matthews and A. T. Stewart. The following gentlemen agreed to leave to-morrow afternoon for Albany, and to meet at the Delavan House in the evening: Messrs. Stewart, Astor, Jr., Roosevelt, Gilsey, Jaffray, Tiffany, Sloane, Wolfe, Matthews, Sefton, Swan, Hatfield, Leimbeer, Lampson, Kerr, Southey, Valentine, Johnson, Detmold, Ward, Philbin, Lord, Faye, Baudoine, Lorillard, Amidon,

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange yesterday there were no sales, and a general air of dullness pervaded the market. Much of this probably may be attributed to the fact that it was moving-day, and a number of those usually at the rooms were absent in other parts of the City. Today several sales are to take place. At private sale yesterday JOHN MCCLAVE disposed of a lot on Seventy-eighth-street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, near Central Park, for $7,000. Also two lots on Central-avenue, in Westchester County, near Arcularius Hotel, for $1,200 per lot.

BOARD OF EXCISE.

Interview with the Liquor-Dealers—The Sunday Clause to be Enforced.

The liquor-dealers are extremely hard to please, for not satisfied with the almost unconditional surrender of the Excise Commissioners to their interests, they are protesting against the schedule of license fees which has been decided upon. To do this effectively a meeting was held of the Liquor-dealers' Association and a Committee was appointed to wait upon the Commissioners and enter the protest. This Committee, at the head of which was Mr. DAVID A. FREEMAN, one of the members being DAVID S. PAGE, keeper of the notorious Page's Hotel, corner of Spring and West streets, which is the chosen resort of such citizens as "Bully" NELSON and the late DAVE O'DAY, yesterday called at the office of the Commissioners, No. 301 Mott-street, and a love feast of the Mutual Admiration Society immediately followed. The Commissioners were very sure that the liquor-dealers are an eminently respectable body of men, who intend to conserve the public peace and decency by strictly obeying the new law, and the liquor-dealers were entirely certain that the Commissioners would deal justly by the interests with which they are charged, and by way of giving proper tone and spirit to the affair, Mr. PAGE, of Page's Hotel, poured out a good deal of oral slime upon Hon. THOMAS B. ACTON, late Police Commissioner, for his course in excise matters. The especial object of the call was a representation upon the part of the dealers that the schedule of rates would prove burdensome and unjust in many cases. They seemed to know their guild intimately for they represented that the persons who took out the $30 licenses for the sale of ale and beer only, would always sell liquor also "on the sly," and they suggested a modification by which the rate for licenses should be fixed at $30, $75, $100 and $150.

In answering this demand the Commissioners made no promise except to take the matter under advisement. Col. PRICE, the President, who first spoke, went on to say that the Board were determined to enforce the provisions requiring the closing of the saloons on Sunday and at night, and he hoped that the dealers would aid the Board in this matter and by their ready acquiescence in the law render puritive measures unnecessary. He referred to what he called the unjust attacks of the Press upon the Commissioners for their dereliction in this respect, and pleaded in answer that they are not yet fully organized and prepared to enforce the law. Mr. WILLIAMS, another of the Commissioners, spoke firmly and sensibly upon this point, saying that the saloons must be kept closed on Sunday and at night, as required by the law, and that the Board is fully determined that they shall be. There is, he said, in this City, as everywhere else, a sentiment averse to the desecration of the Sabbath, which should be respected from policy, if nothing else, and he hoped that there would be general obedience to the law. If there were not the Commissioners were determined to exert all their powers to enforce the closing of the saloons during the prohibited hours. Mr. MARTIN NACHTMANN, the third Commissioner, who was a member of the late Assembly by which the law was passed, in adverting to the same topic, declared himself in favor of the very largest liberty to the liquor traffic on Sunday as well as at all other times, but the law being as it is he was in favor of its enforcement.

The responses made by the Committee to these declarations of the Commissioners were feebly acquiescent, and the gentlemen composing it withdrew to seek such consolations as is to be found in their trade and its profit, and the business of the office was not further interrupted by these diversions. It was not, however, very brisk at any time, and considerable astonishment was expressed that so few applicants for the authority of the new Board presented themselves.

The Murder on the High Seas—Johnson Held for Extradition.

THOMAS H. JOHNSON, of New-Hampshire, was brought before Commissioner OSBORN, yesterday, to await extradition by the British authorities on the charge of having killed E. BAVINS on board of the English bark Morning Light, Capt. LAVANDER, about 800 miles from land, the vessel being in latitude 29° 7′ north, and longitude 64° 54′ west, at the time. The crime was committed on the 22d inst., while the accused and the deceased, who both shipped as seamen on board the bark at Buenos Ayres, South America, were engaged in cleaning the forecastle, BAVINS, who stood to the rattlings on the starboard side of the mast, asked JOHNSON, who stood at the mast-cap at the top of the mast, to exchange places with him as the ropes hurt his feet. This the latter refused to do, and a quarrel then ensued between the two sailors, during which BAOINS was stabbed in the abdomen. The wounded man was subsequently held to the mast by his assailant to prevent his falling to the deck and injuring himself. After the committal of the deed JOHNSTON manifested the greatest regret. He claimed that it was done in self-defense. Before the Commissioner, yesterday, an affidavit was made by Capt. LAVANDER against the prisoner. A sailor named JAMES MADDOX gave testimony to the effect that he heard BAVINS scream while he was in the rigging, and that he also saw two knives fall to the deck. On motion of Assistant District-Attorney PURDY, JOHNSON was committed to prison to await the action of the British Consul in regard to extradition. The witnesses in the case were sent to the House of Detention. Later in the day a demand was received from Mr. ARCHIBALD, the British Consul, for the extradition of JOHNSON.

May-Moving Statistics.

The tide of May-movers from Brooklyn to New-York is larger than the tide the other way, for the first time in several years. There have crossed the Hamilton Ferry to Brooklyn since April, 222 loads, sixty-three of which went over yesterday. There has been about the same number the other way. At the South Ferry there was little travel of this kind, not more than five carts passing over to Brooklyn. Nearly the same may be said of the Wall-street Ferry. At the South Seventh-street, Williamsburg Ferry, the run was to New-York, and seemingly destined for New-Jersey. At the Fulton Ferry-slip Ferry twenty-seven loads came to New-York yesterday before 1 o'clock, and nineteen crossed over to Brooklyn. There was more moving here on Friday and Saturday, the odds in favor of New-York. At Catharine-street it was three to five in favor of Brooklyn; at Grand-street five to one in favor of Williamsburg, which shows a partiality by settlers for Williamsburg; at the Division-avenue Ferry 100 carts went to Brooklyn, where 227 came to New-York.

The rush over the Barclay-street Ferry, for Hoboken, on Saturday, was immense—that day being the biggest one of the year. Yesterday 267 loaded carts passed over there, to fifty-three for New-York. The travel at Christopher-street Ferry was still greater, up-town families choosing this ferry to the one further down. On the Desbrosses-street Ferry to Jersey City, this forenoon, sixty-five loads went over, to four coming to New-York. At Cortlandt-street, the May-moving travel has been duller than for several years.

Change in the Brooklyn City Government.

Dr. COCHRAN, the newly-appointed Health Officer, took official possession of his office yesterday morning. Dr. W. H. THAYER has been placed in temporary charge.

The newly-appointed Excise Commissioners met yesterday forenoon and elected Mr. JAMES CARROT President and Mr. JOHN PYBURN Treasurer. Capt. W. ELLSWORTH was elected Chief Clerk. The Board adjourned till today at 10 o'clock.

Mr. JOHN LINSKEY, of the Fourteenth Ward, Eastern District, was yesterday appointed Commissioner of Jurors.

The newly-appointed Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon, and in the absence of the Mayor, on account of illness, formally organized by appointing DANIEL D. BRIGGS, President, and ISAAC VAN ANDEN, Treasurer, and adjourned till today.

The Fire Commissioners took possession yesterday of the books and papers of the Superintendent of Buildings, whose office has been displaced by legislative enactment under their control. The Board will appoint the Inspectors for both districts of the city today.

The Way of the Transgressor.

At an early hour yesterday morning Officer MCKINLEY, of the Eighth Ward, found ROBERT G. PHILLIPS and MARY LEE lying in the basement of the premises No. 118 Bleecker-street, both grossly intoxicated. They were removed to the Station-house, when PHILLIPS appeared to be insensible, and he died before a surgeon arrived. Coroner ROLLINS held an inquest in the case, when it was ascertained that the man and woman staggered into the building and fell headlong down the stone steps. They broke the panel of the door at the foot of the stairs so terrific was their fall. A verdict of accidental death was rendered and the jury censured the owner of the building for negligence in not having railings to the steps. The deceased resided at No. 157 West Thirty-first-street, and was an adopted son of the late JONAH B. PHILLIPS, formerly District-Attorney for the county, and was a young man of good education and promise, though he had of late years been living a dissipated and abandoned life.

Incendiarism at Sea.

Prof. J. J. PHOLE made a chemical investigation before Commissioner OSBORN, yesterday, of the contents of the box of explosive oils which A. KOMP and A. LANGE are jointly charged with having shipped on board of the steamer George Washington, by means of which box the vessel was fired while at sea. The destruction of the box, it is supposed, was contemplated at the time of shipment, as the contents were insured for $1,500 as machinery on a bill of lading. Prof. PHOLE testified that the oils were of a highly combustible character, and were liable to explosion by friction or percussion. It was his opinion that the friction produced by the white mice which were found in the box was sufficient to ignite the compound. The case was adjourned until Wednesday.

THE JERICHO MYSTERY.

The Premises, the Victim, the Inquest, and the Verdict.

In the TIMES of yesterday was printed the report of the horrible death of DAVID NOSTRAND, of Jericho. There were very few new facts elicited yesterday, going to prove other than that he committed suicide while laboring under temporary derangement. He went to New-York on Monday last, since which time his conduct has been strange. On Friday he attempted to destroy himself by taking laudanum, but an analysis of the drug proved it to be too weak to be fatal. On Saturday morning he directed his men to go to the fields to do some work, and sent his son to Hicksville to an auction. He then went to his room and procured a razor, and taking a rope from the carriage-house, proceeded to the hay-loft, locking the doors securely, and there ended his earthly existence by cutting his throat and hanging himself. It was late in the day when the body was found, and then it was cold and stiff. He had been married eighteen years, and leaves a wife and three children. He was forty-six years of age. Justice FRANKLIN held an inquest, and the jury found that he came to his death by violence at his own hands.

No cause is assigned for the commission of the terrible crime, as he had no financial or domestic troubles. He left no letter or other message to explain his rash act, nor has the instrument with which the throat was cut been found, notwithstanding the hay has all been removed and every possible search made. The funeral will take place today, and will no doubt be largely attended, as he was the leading man in his native place, widely known and universally respected.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

An unusually interesting meeting of ladies of the County Suffrage Association was held yesterday afternoon at an elegant private residence in Thirty-fourth-street. The first hour was spent in parliamentary drilling, as is the custom at these gatherings. The second hour was devoted to the discussion of different themes, the absorbing one being a resolution to secure a commodious hall, with committee-rooms attached, for the ensuing year, to be elegantly and attractively furnished, and occupied as a ladies' club, where all needed reforms will be freely discussed. Connecting will be a reading-room, containing home and foreign periodicals of the day. Parlor entertainments, as a higher moral tone of the drama, is among their special reforms. This society includes among its members ladies of high literary talent, who will establish a new daily newspaper devoted entirely to the interest and advancement of woman; also, an evening school for the instruction and improvement of women to whom early advantages may have been denied, and whose business may exclude a daily attendance. The resolution was unanimously approved and accepted, and a guarantee of $300 added to the treasury. The meeting then adjourned.

Another attempt to force Postmaster JONES to deliver letters addressed to alleged confidence operators by over-credulous people was attended, yesterday, with futile results. WM. M. MARTINE, one of the aggrieved parties, commenced a suit for $10,000 damages and the value of the letters which were withheld, before Justice MORSELL, in the Superior Court, but, on motion of Mr. S. G. COURTNEY, counsel for Postmaster JONES, the case was removed by certiorari to the United States Circuit Court.

Yesterday afternoon, about 3½ o'clock, as Broadway was densely crowded, a horse becoming frightened near Spring-street, overturned an express-wagon to which he was attached, and the thills dragging at his feet, dashed at full speed up the middle of the west sidewalk, scattering pedestrians right and left. When opposite BALL & BLACK's he slipped, and falling heavily to the walk, was finally captured. Fortunately, no one was injured, although several had very narrow escapes.

All are invited to attend who take an interest in a good and beautiful work.

The Fenians are on the move undoubtedly. Many of them have already departed for RIEL's quarters, and others are awaiting orders to depart daily. Enlisting goes on briskly at headquarters. Several men were sworn in yesterday.

The funeral of EVA, daughter of Admiral DAHLGREN, took place yesterday morning from No. 269 Madison-avenue. The remains were taken to Philadelphia for interment.

It was incorrectly stated in yesterday's TIMES that JOHN A. HARDY was held to answer at the Jefferson Market Police Court for stealing $26 from THOMAS HARDY. The statement should have been that a man named DONAVAN was held to answer for stealing a shawl valued at $26 from the store of JOHN A. & THOMAS HARDY, No. 585 Eighth-avenue, during a fire which occurred on the night of April 30.

ABRAHAM COHEN, of No. 154 Madison-street, was found yesterday morning in his store at No. 167 Water-street, lying on the floor so seriously injured that he was helpless. Mr. COHEN, who is seventy years of age, had gone into the store on the previous day, and, falling downstairs, had lain helpless and alone for nearly twenty-four hours, until discovered by his friends, as stated, when he was removed to his home.

Last evening BENJAMIN MCCANDLESS and JAMES O'SHAY, both residing at No. 475 Tenth-avenue, becoming engaged in a quarrel, MCCANDLESS assaulted the other with a knife, but only succeeded in inflicting a slight cut upon the head of O'SHAY, and getting himself into the Twentieth Precinct Station-house, where he is held for arraignment this morning, before Justice SHANDLEY, on a charge of felonious assault.

Before United States Commissioner JONES, yesterday, J. T. DAWSON, a liquor-dealer at the corner of Hamilton-avenue and Commerce-street, was held, on the motion of District-Attorney PARRIS, to answer to a charge of circulating counterfeit five cent coins. It appeared that J. F. BREWER, of the secret service, had, on the 11th January, 1869, bought from the defendant $20 value of said coin for which he paid $15, but owing to the removal of his chief took no action upon it. The counterfeits are of lead, and are very rough imitation. The accused was held in $1,000 bail, which has not yet been forthcoming.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Morris County Courts commence today. The case of the Madison rioters will come before the Grand Jury. The man who fired the shot at Miss O'GORMAN after her lecture on the 22d ult. has not been identified, but a number of suspected persons are held to answer the charge of participating in the riot. Two students of Drew Theological Seminary who drew their pistols on the mob, in defense of Miss O'GORMAN, are also held to answer.

The unpleasantness between Mr. RALPH DENHAM and Mr. WATSON HEDENBURG, of Newark, which led to a scowlding affair in the street in Autumn last, has been adjusted.
